Western Week Activities To Start Here

A Western Week is coming to the Panola County area, with activities scheduled to begin in the coming days. The week will feature a variety of events, including rodeos, parades, and cultural performances. Attendees can expect a lively and entertaining atmosphere throughout the week. For more information, please visit the official Western Week website or contact the local tourism office.

The Panola Watchman

Harris Chapel Receives $500 in Top Prize Money

A local church has been awarded $500 in top prize money as part of a community fundraising event. The church, located in Panola County, participated in a friendly competition with other local organizations to raise funds for their community programs. The church is grateful for the support and looks forward to using the prize money to improve their services.

Course On Camera Due

A new course on camera usage is being offered to local residents. The course aims to teach the basics of camera operation and photography techniques. Interested individuals are encouraged to sign up now to secure their spot in the upcoming class.

Boy Scouts Due Return

A local Boy Scout troop is looking for new members. If you or anyone you know is interested in joining, please contact the troop leader for more information. The troop welcomes new members of all ages and backgrounds and offers a fun and rewarding experience.

Tours At The Museum Slated Here

The Panola County Museum is hosting several guided tours in the coming weeks. Visitors can explore the museum's exhibits and learn about the history of Panola County. Tour dates and times will be announced shortly. For more information, contact the museum directly.
