SUNDAY REVIEW

A Proven Steed

The last picture on the front page of The Dallas Morning News caught the eye of many readers. It showed a horse standing in a stable, with a rider in the saddle. The caption read, "The Last Cowboy on the Range," and it was accompanied by an article about the history of the American cowboy and the challenges facing modern-day cowboys.

Between The Lines

David E. Swenson, a staff writer for The Dallas Morning News, has written a series of columns about the challenges faced by rural communities in Texas. This week, he focused on the impact of urbanization on small towns and the importance of preserving the rural way of life.

ENERGY CHECK#1

ECONOMY CHECK-UP

Butler Chevrolet in Dallas is running a special promotion to help customers save money on their energy bills. The promotion includes a free check-up of your home's energy efficiency and a discount on selecting energy-efficient appliances.
