Once Again

While we've been using a variety of strategies to combat homelessness, it seems that the problem is getting worse. The city is spending more money on shelters and housing, but the number of people living on the streets continues to grow. The question is, what more can we do to help?

More Farmers?

The National Farmers Union has proposed a plan to increase the number of farmers in the United States. They suggest reducing the price of land and providing more support for small-scale farming. What do you think of this plan?
