Sales Tax Receipts Up
Third Quarter Sets Record

Sales tax receipts in the City of Carthage for the third quarter of 1975, according to City Commissioner Harry Long, show that the city has taken in $434,544.71 during this period. This is $55,455.29, or 16 percent, above the amount taken in during the third quarter of last year.

Sales tax receipts reflect sales made in the city, according to Turner, who said that the increase shows that business is maintained in good shape during the third quarter of this year.

A total of 826,086.89 was taken in during the first three months of this year, compared to 804,000.89 for the same period last year.

Total collections this year reflect an increase of 3.5 percent, which will result in an increase of 3.5 percent in the fourth quarter of this year.

"We should be very pleased with last year's total because the city has been able to maintain its services without additional property tax revenues," said Turner.

Chamber Recommends Combining Tax Offices

More than four years of study, investigation and research, the Panola County Chamber of Commerce has formulated and recommended to the county tax officials a plan for the combination of the tax offices of the county at Carthage.

The plan, recently submitted in detail to the county tax officials, calls for the elimination of the tax collector's office and the auditor's office.

"It is our belief that the county's tax offices should be combined into one office to serve the county as a whole," said T. J. Johnson, president of the Chamber.

Johnson said that the plan would be submitted to the county commissioners for their consideration.

The plan calls for the appointment of a tax commissioner to be elected by the county at large.

The tax commissioner would have all the powers of the tax collector and auditor.

The plan also calls for the elimination of the tax collector's office and the auditor's office.

PANELA NATIONAL, Carthage, Texas, January 1, 1975
Inflation: A Mandate To Ponder

It's a new year, a new decade, and a new world. The year 1975 is on the horizon, and with it comes the promise of new beginnings and fresh starts. But there is one issue that threatens to overshadow all others: inflation. Inflation is a silent, insidious force that erodes the value of our money, and it is a problem that requires our immediate attention.

The root cause of inflation is the increase in the money supply, which leads to a decrease in the value of money. This decrease in value means that each dollar only buys less, and this has a profound effect on our daily lives. It means that we have to work harder to earn the same amount of money, and it means that the cost of living is rising, which puts a strain on our budgets.

Inflation is not something that is easy to fix. It requires coordinated action on the part of governments, businesses, and individuals. At the national level, governments must work to control the money supply and prevent it from increasing too quickly. This means implementing policies that limit the growth of the money supply, such as raising interest rates or reducing government spending.

At the business level, companies must be careful to keep their prices in line with the cost of living. This means that they must be profitable enough to cover their costs, but they must also be mindful of the fact that if they raise their prices too quickly, they risk driving away customers.

At the individual level, we must be prepared to make adjustments to our spending habits. This means that we must be willing to make sacrifices, such as cutting back on luxuries or finding lower-cost alternatives.

In conclusion, inflation is a serious issue that requires our immediate attention. It is a problem that affects all of us, and it is one that must be addressed if we are to maintain a stable and prosperous economy. As we look to the future, let us remember that inflation is not something that can be ignored. It is a problem that must be faced, and it is a problem that we must solve.
