Special Celebration Set
For Thanksgiving This Year

A special community Thanksgiving celebration has been planned for Tuesday, Nov. 26, in the Panola County Pavilion in Carthage. The day will begin with services at 2 p.m. in the Panola County Pavilion Auditorium, followed by a feast at 4 p.m. at the Panola County Pavilion Banquet Hall.

Give Your Opinion

Nearly 100 years ago this county was formed on the premise of individual freedom, individual choice and the right of individuals to control the actions of their government through democratic and free elections.

Since that time, the people of this county and the nation have fought and died for the basic principles upon which the county was founded. They have chosen an agrarian society, based on hard work and the freedom to own property, the supreme sacrifice in defense of the principles of a free and just government.

For the very beginning, America demanded representation in their government. In fact, a basic issue facing the United States was taxation by England without representation for Americans. We've come a long way since then and, unfortunately, we haven't traveled to the right direction. In national, state and local elections, too many people in this county are satisfied with representing their right to represent them. But for the representative to represent the people, elections are drawing fewer and fewer voters.

Two years ago, this country was hit by a mid-level robbery rather than the major one its forefathers envisioned.

Tuesday, Nov. 26, Texas will have an opportunity to once again decide our right to be represented by our state government in all matters. Instead of allowing a few people to decide how things should be done, let's use the opportunity to show everybody what it means to be an American, at least take the time to determine whether our government will indeed reflect the will of the majority rather than allowing vocal minorities to run our business.

2-For-1 Sale Set

Those who are shopping will be in for a big surprise. With the event scheduled to be held during Thanksgiving weekend, the sale will run from Thursday, Nov. 14, to Sunday, Nov. 17.

The sale will feature discounts on a variety of items, including clothing, furniture, electronics, and home accessories. The event will be held at the Panola County Pavilion in Carthage.

County Meeting Slated Monday

Panola County Commissioners will meet on Monday morning at 9 a.m. in the Panola County Pavilion. The meeting is open to the public.

In addition, the agenda for the meeting will include discussions about the current state of the county, potential development projects, and any other business that may come up. The meeting will be held in the Panola County Pavilion Auditorium.

Here's a tip: if you're looking to get a regular haircut, check out the local school district. Last week, the Carthage Independent School District's Occupational Technical Program taught a group of students how to cut hair, and one student even got a haircut! The program teaches students about different techniques and tools used in the industry, and gives them the opportunity to practice their skills. Some of the students even got to cut each other's hair, which was a great opportunity to learn from each other.

The program is open to all students in the district, and is available at all three high schools. If you're interested in learning more about the program, contact Mrs. chloride Beller and Mrs. Clara Martin at the district's hairdressing school.

Several Clergymen Participate in Community Meeting

Community clergymen participated in a meeting on Friday, Nov. 15, at the Panola County Pavilion. The meeting was held to discuss various community issues and concerns.

Several ministers from different churches attended the meeting, including Reverend John Smith of the First United Methodist Church in Carthage, Reverend Mary Johnson of the Carthage Baptist Church, and Reverend David Williams of the Carthage Christian Church.

The meeting was held in the Panola County Pavilion Auditorium, and was open to the public.

Tuesday is Election Day

U. S. Shouldn’t Ignore Arabs

By John$errors

Editor

Pineapple County, constituting of the five major counties in our state, has more than a dozen Arab-owned businesses. The majority of these businesses have been established in the past two decades. These businesses include restaurants, grocery stores, and small businesses.

A recent editorial in the local newspaper criticized the current administration for its policies towards the Arab community. The editorial argues that the Arab community has been subjected to discrimination and has been ignored by the government. The editorial calls for a more inclusive approach towards the Arab community and urges the government to support and promote their businesses.

The editorial also highlights the economic impact of the Arab community on Pineapple County. The Arab community is estimated to contribute approximately 5% to the local economy. This contribution is significant, especially in a county that is heavily dependent on tourism.

The editorial concludes by calling for a fair and equal treatment of the Arab community. It argues that the government should work towards creating a more inclusive and diverse society.
