Incumbent District Attorney William P. Terry has announced that he will run for a third term in the District Attorney position in 1976. Terry, who has served the position for the past two years, is expected to face considerable competition in the primary elections. Some political analysts believe that Terry's re-election bid may be hindered by the recent increase in crime in the county. Others, however, believe that Terry's record as District Attorney will help him win re-election.

County Commissioners have also endorsed Terry's re-election bid. The Commissioners, who are responsible for appointing the District Attorney, have praised Terry's work and support his bid for re-election. Terry is currently running against two other candidates, John Smith and James Brown. The primary election is scheduled for next month, and the general election is set for November.

Traffic Signs Being Changed

Traffic signs around the county will be changed from white to orange, and back again.

The signs will be changed to orange for one week, then to white for one week, and then back to orange again. This change will last for one year, after which time the signs will be changed back to their original color.

The change is designed to make the signs more visible and easily seen by drivers. The orange color is intended to attract attention, while the white color will be used during the winter months when the signs are likely to be obscured by snow or ice.

The signs will be changed at night, when traffic is lightest, to minimize any disruption. The change will begin next month and will continue for one year.

The change is expected to cost $100,000, but the county has already budgeted the money for the project.

Traffic signs around the county will be changed from white to orange, and back again.

"Excess" Oil Profits

"Excess" oil profits of $2.5 million in 1975 will go to the City of Murchison, according to Mayor John Williams. The profits were derived from a $20 million bond issue for the Marlin Drilling Company, which is owned by the city. Mayor Williams said the money will be used to pay off the bond issue and to improve city services.
