A PRAYER
For Our Country

Almost two hundred years ago, Our Country was born by donning three colors: red, white, and blue. Since that time, we have been blessed with a nation of freedom and equality.

John Adams once said, "It is not the strongest of the species that survives, nor the most intelligent that survives. It is the one that is most adaptable to change." This is true for our country as well.

The Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land. It was ratified by the Founding Fathers on September 17, 1787. The Constitution is the foundation upon which our country was built.

The Bill of Rights was added to the Constitution in 1791, and it guarantees the fundamental rights of all Americans. The Bill of Rights is a document that protects our freedoms, and it is a reminder of the sacrifices made by our ancestors.

In conclusion, we must continue to honor our Constitution and the values it represents. Let us work together to create a better future for our country.

Dissent Costly In Soviet Union

By the Monday

OPENING MORE OLD AIRS

I understand that there have been petitions and letters to the Federal Court in Moscow calling for the release of political prisoners, and that there have been demonstrations in support of these prisoners. The Soviet government, however, has denied these claims and has continued to imprison those who have criticized its policies.

The Soviet government has always been known for its suppression of dissent and the strict control of the media. It is clear that the government is not interested in allowing expression of dissenting views, even when those views are supported by international organizations.

The Soviet government has also been accused of using violence and torture to silence its critics. It is important for the international community to remain vigilant in its support of free speech and democratic values.

RACE NIGHTS IN THE BLEACHERS

The race nights that have been held in the city have been successful, with large crowds attending each event. The proceeds from these nights have helped to fund various community projects.

The city authorities have decided to continue these events, with the hope of raising even more funds for local organizations.

By no means is this an easy task, and there are many challenges that must be overcome. However, the potential benefits are significant, and I believe that we can make a positive impact on the community.

Water Treatment Battles Horn Fly

We asked Ann Wilford Gray, superintendent of schools, about the horn fly problem in the Panola school district. She said that the horn fly is a nuisance, especially in the summer months when the flies are most active.
