Woman Robbed, Raped
In Downtown Carthage Store

A Carthage woman was robbed and raped in broad daylight on her downtown street corner, according to information being released by Carthage Police Chief Tom Davis Friday.

The victim, a woman in her late 20s, was walking alone near the downtown square when she was approached by a man who demanded her money.

The victim complied, but was then attacked and raped. She was later taken to a hospital, where she is undergoing medical treatment.

Carthage Police are investigating the case and have released the identity of the victim, who is a local resident. The investigation is ongoing.

Texas Oil Production Down
For Third Consecutive Year

The decrease in oil production in Texas is continuing for a third year, according to recent reports. Production in the state has dropped by 10 percent in the past year, affecting local economies and impacting the job market. The decrease is due to lower demand and a shift to more energy-efficient sources.
