Par, pass and kick competition for the Carthage Cheerleaders will be held Sept. 14, at the Carthage Opera House. The competition will be held at 8:00 p.m. and every person is invited to attend.

Lilburn Johnson, the former mayor of Carthage, in the recent elections, will be present at the competition. The competition is open to all Carthage residents and will be broadcast from the Opera House on WOKY.

The competition will feature a variety of events, including par, pass, and kick. Participants will be judged on their skills in these events, as well as on their overall performance.

The winners of the competition will be awarded with prizes and recognition. The Carthage Cheerleaders will also hold a charity auction to raise funds for their upcoming season.

The Carthage Cheerleaders have been working hard to prepare for their upcoming season. They have been practicing their routines and working on their skills to ensure they have a successful season.

The competition will be held at 8:00 p.m. on Sept. 14, at the Carthage Opera House. It is open to all Carthage residents, and everyone is invited to attend.

The Carthage Cheerleaders will also be holding a charity auction to raise funds for their upcoming season. Participants can purchase tickets for the auction online or at the Carthage Opera House.

For more information about the competition or the charity auction, please contact the Carthage Cheerleaders at 903-773-2121.
