Carter Holds Big Lead

With most major take-home counties and news sources remaining undecided, predictions for the presidential election remain uncertain. Former President Donald Trump, incumbent Democrat Joe Biden, and other candidates hope to secure enough electoral votes to win the presidency. As of now, polls show a tight race, with Trump leading in some states and Biden leading in others.

Halloween A Big Success

Planned Halloween events drew massive crowds this past weekend, turning official ones into chaotic scenes of joy and fear. Costumes ranged from classic superheroes like Batman and Superman to more obscure references from pop culture.

In addition to the town's official events, a group of teenagers held their own private Halloween party in the backyard of a house on Main Street. The party attracted a large crowd, with many people dressing up in creative costumes. Among the highlights were a group of zombies, led by a green-skinned, foam-fingered monster, and a dracula that appeared to be made of ice.

The annual fall festival, which included a pumpkin carving contest and a costume contest, was held in the town square. Many of the entries were creatively designed, with some highlighting local history and culture.

Local businesses also joined in the fun, offering discounts and special deals to customers wearing costumes. The event was capped off with a fireworks display in the town square, which provided an exciting conclusion to an unforgettable weekend.
