CISD To Pay A Share Of Carthage Park Cost

The Austin school district paid $2,500 to help finance the construction of Carthage Park. The district will contribute $5,000, half of the total cost of $10,000 for the 2.5 acre park, to be located along the West floridan River. The park is expected to be completed this summer, according toulations.

Some Schedule
Holiday Monday

Federal offices, schools, and most businesses will be closed Monday, December 26, in celebration of Christmas. The convention center will be closed during the day due to holiday activities. The United States Post Office will only operate from 8:00 AM to 4:00 PM on Monday.

Utility, Tax Growth
Key State Problems

Every year, the Texas legislature must approve a budget and set the tax rate for state and local government agencies. This year, the budget is expected to be higher than in previous years due to increased utility and tax growth. The state's budget must also address the needs of the elderly population and the rising cost of health care.

State Requests Back JP Fines

In the December 24 issue, there was an error in the report about the JP fines. It was reported that $10,000 was requested from the JP fines to be returned to the state. The correct amount was $10,000. The reporter regrets any confusion this may have caused.

Between The Lines

Social Security And Politics

By Jim Blandino

AFFIRMED BY THE COURT

Ephesians 6:12: "For we do not wrestle against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rule of Darkness, against spiritual wickedness in high places." ...

One intriguing feature of the Social Security and politics relationship has always been the way the system has evolved over time. The Social Security Act of 1935 established a national insurance program to provide retirement benefits for workers, with contributions from employers and employees. The program has since expanded to include disability, survivor benefits, and Medicare.

While the system has proven to be a vital social safety net for millions of Americans, it has also been the subject of frequent political debate. Both political parties have sought to reform the system to ensure its long-term viability and to make it more equitable.

The current administration has proposed changes to the program that would reduce benefits for some workers. These proposals have sparked controversy and have been met with resistance from those who rely on Social Security for their income.

In response, the Democratic Party has proposed a plan to expand Social Security benefits and to ensure that it remains a viable program for future generations. This proposal has been met with support from many Americans who see Social Security as a critical component of their financial security.

The debate over Social Security is likely to continue for many years to come, with both parties seeking to make changes that will benefit their constituents. As the system continues to evolve, it will be important to ensure that it remains a viable and effective part of our national social safety net.
