AMC Contract Placed On ‘Hold’
For Revision, Reconsideration

American Medical International’s (AMI) managed-care contract with Carthage Hospital, effective January 1, 1973, is currently under reconsideration, according to suggestions from state and federal governmental agencies. The recent stress placed on hospitals in this state and nationwide has led to a reevaluation of all hospital contracts and their impact on the health-care industry.

This action could lead to a potential crisis in the hospital industry if not handled properly. The Carthage Hospital Board of Directors has been informed of the situation and is currently reviewing the contract.
