Union Strikers Back At Work

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Strikers who walked out of the defunct Continental Oil Co. refinery today went back to work after reaching an agreement with the company. The strike lasted for two months. The strike was caused by disagreements over wages and working conditions.

Personnel And Roads

Occupy Commissioners

Chapman Men's Committee on Personnel and Roads, led by Commissioner John Chapman, met today to discuss the current status of personnel and road projects. The committee plans to prioritize the most urgent needs in order to improve the town's infrastructure.

Curb, Gutter, Asphalt Set For Discussion

Chapman Men's Committee on Curb, Gutter, and Asphalt held a meeting today to discuss the proposals for curbing, guttering, and paving. The committee members are divided on the best approach to take.

Yule Parade Nears

The annual Yule Parade, scheduled for December 24th, is getting closer. Local businesses and organizations are preparing floats and decorations to celebrate the holiday spirit. The parade will begin at the town square and proceed through the main streets.

Taxes Taking Big Bite

Local residents are feeling the pinch as property taxes continue to rise. Many are looking for ways to reduce their tax burden, such as by engaging in community services or volunteering their time and skills.

Ad for BAYER, Lysol, and other household products is also present.
