Disaster: This Is A Drill, This Is A Drill

by Al Gore

CAUGHT on film as Rambler's special equipment truck sped off to a nearby hospital. The truck was supposed to be used to help in the event of a school evacuation or an incident where accident victims needed medical attention.

Gore's staff could smile with all the usual newsmen's smiles, as he watched the drill from a safe distance. The drill was a success, and the hospital was able to handle the situation in a professional manner.

However, some people were disappointed because the equipment brought in was not actually used. Standard procedures, which have been established to minimize the risk of accidents and ensure the safety of everyone involved, were not followed.

The hospital said the drill was not to test their abilities, but to familiarize them with the equipment. The drill was a success, and the hospital was able to handle the situation in a professional manner.

Disaster and the drill were the two words that kept coming up in discussions about the incident. The drill was a success, and the hospital was able to handle the situation in a professional manner.
