Tax Exemption Hike Placed On February Ballot

Pamco County residents will get another chance to vote on a property value increase. Monday morning, the county commissioners voted to raise the county's property value by 5 percent. The proposed increase was first brought up at the last county commission meeting. County officials say the increase is needed to help balance the county's budget. The increase would affect all property owners in the county. The proposed increase would affect all property owners in the county. The increase would affect all property owners in the county.
