Mrs. Flanagan Resigns City Job

Chooses Housing Authority Instead

Elaine Flanagan, who has been a member of the council for many years, has resigned her position on the council. She cited personal reasons for her decision to step down. The resignation means that the council must now fill the vacancy by appointing a new member.

"I have given the matter a lot of thought, and I feel it is in the best interest of the city that I resign," Flanagan said. "I have enjoyed serving the city for many years, but it is time for someone else to take on the responsibility of this important position."}

Tatum's School Board Faces Unusual Dilemma

The extension of Tatum School District's property tax rate by 3 cents to a rate of 27 cents per hundred dollars of assessed valuation was approved by the Tatum School Board meeting Tuesday night. The board voted unanimously to approve the tax rate increase, which will be used to fund various school programs and services.

"It is a challenging time for our district," said Board President Mr. Smith. "We have been working hard to ensure that our students have access to the best possible education, and we believe that this tax increase is necessary to support our efforts."}

City, School Election Pace Brisk

A large number of local residents are expected to vote in the upcoming election for school board and city council positions. As of this morning, the Bartlesville High School, Central High School, and Tatum High School all had high turnout rates.

"We are very encouraged by the level of interest in this election," said Dr. Johnson, superintendent of the Bartlesville Public Schools. "We believe that our students and community members are making informed decisions about the future of our schools."
