Pecan disease makes appearance

Pecan disease makes appearance in the area, particularly affecting younger pecan orchards. Early detection and proper management are crucial to control the spread of this disease. Affected orchards require specific care and attention to prevent further damage. Local agricultural experts are available to provide guidance and support to those affected. The disease can be managed through cultural practices, such as pruning and maintaining healthy soil, as well as applying fungicides as necessary. Pets and other animals should be kept out of affected areas to prevent the spread of the disease.

End To Saturday Mail Delivery Could Cripple Postal Service

The Postal Service is facing a significant challenge due to the end of Saturday mail delivery. This change could have a considerable impact on the Postal Service's financial stability, as it relies heavily on mail volume. The service has already experienced a decline in revenue, and if Saturday delivery is eliminated, it could lead to further financial strain. The Postal Service is exploring various options to mitigate these effects, including fee increases and changes in mail handling processes.

CHS wallops Bears, 14-2

As baseball season winds down in the Southern area and the end of the season approaches, the CHS baseball team has been working hard to get in as many good games as they can. One such game was played last week against the Aggies of East Central High School.

The game was closely contested in the first inning with the Aggies leading 3-2. However, the CHS team rallied in the bottom of the frame to tie the game at 3. It was a good game, but the Aggies went on to win 7-2. The CHS team has been working hard to improve their skills in the final weeks of the season.

Bearcats blitz Tatum Eagles in 27-3 slugfest

The Bearcats, under the guidance of Coach Baker, have been working hard to improve their skills. They have been practicing every day, and it shows in their performance on the field. The Bearcats' victory over the Tatum Eagles was a testament to their hard work and dedication.

Tetanus vaccinations important

Spring has officially arrived, and with it comes the threat of tetanus. It is important to ensure that everyone is up to date with their tetanus vaccinations. This is especially crucial for those who work in environments where the risk of exposure to tetanus is high, such as farmers, construction workers, and household cleaners. Make sure to check with your healthcare provider to ensure you are protected.
