Texas rural hero sought

The Texas Rural Health Task Force is seeking the help of a rural Texas hero to help jumpstart the state's rural health care system.

The task force is looking for someone who has a strong desire to improve rural health care in Texas and is willing to work with the task force to identify and implement strategies to improve access to care.

The task force believes that rural Texans have a unique perspective on the challenges facing rural health care and that their input is essential to developing effective solutions.

The Texas Rural Health Task Force is a collaboration between the Texas Rural Health Association and the University of Texas Health Science Center at Houston.

The task force is seeking nominations for rural heroes from across the state.

For more information on how to nominate a rural hero, contact the Texas Rural Health Task Force at (512) 651-8480 or ruralhealth@uth.tmc.edu.

Southside sets revival

The Southside area of Carthage is undergoing a revival, with new businesses and developments sprouting up throughout the neighborhood.

This is the result of several factors, including a growing population and the expansion of the local economy.

Many people are attracted to the area because of its convenient location and its proximity to the city center.

The revival is also being fueled by the efforts of local businesses and organizations, who are working together to make the Southside a vibrant and dynamic part of Carthage.

Medical records order a “must”

It is important for everyone to keep their medical records up to date and to make sure they have access to them when needed.

This is especially true for people who have chronic medical conditions or who have had recent surgery.

Having access to your medical records can help you and your doctor make informed decisions about your care.

It is recommended that you keep your medical records in a safe and secure location, such as a file cabinet or a locked box.

You should also make sure that your records are up to date and that you have copies of all relevant records, such as test results and laboratory reports.

For more information on how to keep your medical records up to date, contact your doctor or healthcare provider.
