So That’s What A ‘Now’ Account Is!

The Insurance Man just called to tell me there was a new package of portraits in living color that I could get for only $95. I thought I’d pass along the information to you, just in case you’re interested.

Packaging a portrait is a great way to preserve memories. You can order portraits in all sizes, from small 2x3s to larger 10x12s. The prices start at $9.50 per print. The portraits are professionally framed and matted, and you can choose from a variety of frame styles.

For more information, give the insurance man a call at 693-6464.

Mrs. Mike Stites and Mrs. Howard Shailer, Carthage Garden Club members, plan to decorate the club house for the meeting on Thursday, March 5th. The theme will be “Windsor.” The club will also make a donation to the local women’s dormitory to which the dormitory helps to raise money. The meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the gym of the old Carthage High School. The club will also be selling items to help raise money for the dormitory. The meeting will be open to the public.

Volleyball tourney a rousing success

Carthage Roundball Roundup

Lady Bulldogs defeat Kilgore

Johnnie罗的Chris Night owner, a high school senior with a natural talent for sports, was chosen by the community to cover the action. His camera work captured the excitement of the game, as the Lady Bulldogs emerged victorious over Kilgore. The crowd was on its feet, cheering for the Lady Eagles, who played a strong game against their rivals. However, the boys' game was a nail-biter, with the Carthage Bulldogs pulling off a dramatic victory in the final seconds.

The Lady Eagles faced a tough challenge against Kilgore. Despite their efforts, they fell short in the close game. The Lady Bulldogs, on the other hand, showed their resilience and determination, earning a hard-fought win.

The volleyball tournament was a thrilling event, with teams competing for the championship. The Lady Eagles put up a strong fight against their opponents, but in the end, Lady Bulldogs emerged as the winners. The tournament was packed with excitement, as players battled it out on the court.

Sunday School Lesson

Have compassion

Background Scripture: Matthew 22:34-40

As we continue to study the story of Jesus and His teachings, we come across the example of compassion. Compassion is an important concept in Christianity and is often associated with love and mercy. In this lesson, we will look at how compassion can be applied in our daily lives.
