Backyard Gardener

By PATRICK REYNOLDS

The weather is finally warming up, and it's time to get those gardens started. This year, we're planning on growing a variety of vegetables and herbs. It's important to choose the right seeds and soil for each plant, and to keep them well watered and weeded. We're also considering adding some flowers to the garden to attract pollinators. It's a busy time in the backyard, but it's also a lot of fun. We're looking forward to the fruits of our labor later in the season.
