Sidewalk fix-up would cost $60,000

Proposed landfill site proves too sandy
Feud building between city and Bell

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is accusing the City of Carthage of operating a "fringe telephone system" and making it difficult for them to do business.

The dispute stems from the city's installation of a telephone system that uses fiber-optic cables instead of traditional copper wires. The city has also installed a new phone directory, which includes listings for both the city's own services and those of other providers.

The telco claims that the city is illegally withholding funds from their account and preventing them from accessing the city's phone system.

The city, on the other hand, argues that the telco is trying to stifle competition and that the fiber-optic system is more efficient and provides better service to their customers.

To city ordinance

Trucker granted exception

The city council has granted an exception to a trucking ordinance to allow a truck to pass through the city. The truck, a semi-trailer truck, is 33 feet long and will be transporting goods from a local factory to a warehouse.

The council's decision was based on the fact that the truck was carrying essential goods and that allowing it to pass would not pose a safety hazard.

Committee discusses consolidating boxes

The chairman of the committee on transportation issues has proposed a plan to consolidate boxes at the local post office. The committee is considering various options, including creating a single large box or using smaller boxes to be delivered to residential addresses.

The chairman argues that consolidating boxes would make it easier for customers to collect their mail and would save the city money in the long run.

Problems stacking up

By Jeff Loudy

One of the problems I'm finding with the stacking up of problems is that they are not always coming at once. It seems like every time I think I've got one problem figured out, another one pops up. It's like trying to stack blocks, but instead of a tower, you end up with a mess on the floor. I think it's important to try to organize and prioritize my problems. Without organization, it's hard to see the big picture. I've been trying to develop a system for categorizing and addressing my problems. This is helping me to keep track of what needs to be done and in what order.

Blue dinosaur

By Vic Parker

In the field of theoretical physics, there are some very strange and exotic phenomena that are difficult to explain. One such phenomenon is the so-called 'blue dinosaur.' This term is used to describe a particle that is predicted to exist in some theoretical models of particle physics. It is called a 'blue dinosaur' because of its unusual properties, which are thought to be similar to those of a dinosaur, but with a blue coloration. Although the existence of such a particle has not yet been confirmed, it is a topic of active research in the field of high-energy physics.
Couple recalls life in Chile

A SYMPATHETIC NOTE to a newspaper can be made by visiting statues and monuments that were preserved during the recent political upheaval in Chile. Today, the couple is living in the city of Santiago, which was the capital of the country during the recent political changes. The couple is not only greeted by the public, but also by the statue of the famous Chilean poet, Pablo Neruda.

The call of the square dance caller still rings loud in Panola County as a number of county square dance enthusiasts still dance in the town of Carthage and in neighboring towns. Carolyn and Bill Duke (left) of Carthage are obviously enjoying themselves recently in a square dance in Marshall. Dorothy and Bill Durham of Henderson spin and dance during the square dance. Watchman staff writer Jeff Landy takes a look at the square dance scene in a special article in Thursday's Watchman. Beckville fire station, city hall bid is accepted

By Staff

The Beckville City Council voted Monday night to accept the low bid of $115,000 from Henry County Contractors for the new Beckville Fire Station and City Hall.

The council met at the old city hall at 7:30 p.m. Monday to consider the bids. After opening the bids, Mayor Wayne Jones read aloud the bids and their respective amounts.

The high bidder was Beckville contractor, K.C. Jackson, who submitted a bid of $125,000. The second highest bid was submitted by Randy's Contractors of Gladewater for $124,000. The remaining bidders were John T. Kelly, of Gladewater, and Alton. Both submitted bids for $115,000.

Jones said the city council was impressed with the quality of the work being done by both Beckville contractors, but the council was pleased with the low bid from Henry County Contractors.

Beall’s building being sold, operations expected to resume

The Beckville Building Company is expected to resume operations next month after selling the building to a local firm.

The company, which was formed to take over operations of the old city hall, held a meeting Monday night to discuss the sale of the building.

Jef Beall, president of the company, said they received several bids for the building, but decided to sell it to a local firm for $100,000.

Beall said the company plans to use the money from the sale to pay off debts and hire a new manager for the building.

Businessmen urged to realize potential

The chairman of the East Texas Citizens Committee, Dr. W. C. Stoffer, urged businessman to realize the potential of the area.

In his address, Stoffer said the area has great potential for growth and development.

He urged businessmen to consider investing in the area and work together to improve the economic climate.

Stoffer also said the committee will continue to work on behalf of the area and encourage others to join in the effort.
