Schools get high 'grades'

A Visiting Committee for the South Association of Colleges and Schools has recommended full accreditation for all ten Panola County schools for their present school year. The present schools' accreditation is based on an inspection of the schools' records, programs, and activities, and their compliance with the educational standards set by the South Association of Colleges and Schools.

Fireman hurt by power line

Larry Volunteer, Fire Department, Atlanta, was severely injured on his left arm when he was hit by a power line while fighting a brush fire. Volunteer was in the fire area when the line snapped and he was thrown to the ground. Volunteer was taken to the hospital for treatment of the electric shock.

Tax drops to be aired

By the end of the year, property taxes in Panola County will be reduced as a result of a reduction in the tax base. The reduction in the tax base is due to a decrease in the number of properties assessed.

Panola's tall pines were tilted by Friday winds.

Beckville council okays project bid

A contract has been awarded for the construction of a new city hall and fire station in Beckville. The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

Notes:
Area senator co-sponsors water plan funding

As a follow-up to the recent reports on the status of Florida's water resources, the State Senate has introduced a new bill co-sponsored by Senator John Henry, who represents the area in the Senate. The bill aims to address the state's water supply needs and support the implementation of comprehensive water management plans. Senator Henry has been a strong advocate for water conservation policies and is expected to play a key role in ensuring the bill's passage. The legislation will cover topics such as drought preparedness, water efficiency, and the funding mechanisms needed to support these initiatives. The bill's introduction comes at a time when the state is facing growing concerns over water scarcity and the need for sustainable water management practices.

BEGAN WITH A SACRED FEAST

On 5th of our faith's mission,
We kicked off the festivities:
Two joyful celebrations,
A sacred feast.

On Christmas Day, the Church of God was
The Figurative inhabitants of Earth,
Blessed with a divine kiss,
To light up the season's bliss.

On Easter Sunday, the Church of God was
A representation of resurrection,
Blessed with the triumph of life,
To lead us to a new reality.

Join us, let us celebrate,
The joy of our faith's mission,
Let us embrace the festivities,
Two joyful celebrations, a sacred feast.

In the second game, the Ponies defeated Navarro, 1-3. Ponies pitcher, windows ace, allowed only three hits to Navarro's batting ace, who struck out four times but did manage to get on base.

Bulldogs bow 12-7 to Lions in 8-AAAA

First loss in league for beleaguered Carthage

by Jeff Anderson, Cole Walker and David Smith

The bulldogs dropped a heartbreaker to the Lions in 8-AAAA Wednesday night, losing 12-7.

The Lions started off strong, scoring three runs in the first inning. The Bulldogs came back in the second inning, scoring five runs. However, the Lions scored four runs in the third inning and added three more in the fourth inning, putting the Bulldogs behind 12-5.

The Bulldogs scored two runs in the fifth inning, but it wasn't enough to catch up to the Lions. The Lions added three more runs in the sixth inning, putting the final score at 12-7.

This loss was the first of the season for the Bulldogs, who had been unbeaten in league play. The Bulldogs will look to rebound next week when they host the rival Lions.
Third-party phone calls facing stiffener requirements by GT

Trouble with third-party phone calls is facing tougher requirements by GT, the international trade organization that regulates the sector.

The new requirements aim to prevent third-party calls from being used as a means to evade regulatory oversight and ensure fair competition. Under the new rules, third-party calls will be subject to additional reporting and scrutiny.

The changes are expected to be implemented by the end of the year and will apply to all third-party calls across the globe.

Thad "Mr. Rose" Edwards displays some of the 300 rose bushes in his garden.

Edwards recognized for devotion to roses

By Steve Klahr

Gardening痴者, Thad "Mr. Rose" Edwards displays some of the 300 rose bushes in his garden.

Growing up with some ribs, Thad "Mr. Rose" Edwards displays some of the 300 rose bushes in his garden.

Although everyone was surprised to hear the name changed, Edwards was the roses was still in the life. The roses were a symbol of what Edwards represented, and they carried on through his life. Edwards was always looking for new ways to improve the roses, and he continued to raise new varieties. He even wrote a book about his gardening experiences. Although Edwards was a bit of a recluse, he enjoyed his roses and was always proud of his garden. Edwards passed away in his garden, surrounded by his beloved roses.
Proposed legislation outlined

As the state moves towards a safer driving environment, a new bill has been introduced that aims to address the issue of infant safety in vehicles. The bill, sponsored by Representative John Smith, proposes mandatory use of infant safety seats to reduce the risk of severe injury or death in accidents.

The bill would require all parents to use infant safety seats for their children under the age of two, regardless of the weight or size of the child. This includes in-car seats, portable carriers, and even those used in taxis. The bill also mandates the use of these seats for all children under the age of four.

The legislation is expected to have a significant impact on the number of child deaths in car accidents. According to statistics from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, an estimated 14 children under the age of two die in car accidents each day in the United States.

Dr. W.C. Smith, editor of the Journal of Pediatric Medicine, has praised the bill, stating, "This legislation is a crucial step in protecting our children and reducing the number of deaths from car accidents.

Using infant safety seats: guidelines for parents

- Always use a rear-facing seat for your baby up to the time specified by the manufacturer.
- Ensure the seat is correctly installed and secured.
- Check the seat's expiration date.
- Do not use a seat beyond its expiration date.
- Keep the seat clean and free of any obstructions.

Emergency medical identification noted for Medici Alert Week

Medici Alert, a service that provides emergency medical IDs, has seen a significant increase in usage over the past year. According to statistics from the company, there has been a 30% increase in the number of users who have signed up for the service.

The service works by providing a medical ID that can be worn on a bracelet or necklace. The ID contains important health information about the user, such as allergies, medications, and pre-existing conditions. In the event of an emergency, the ID can be used to quickly access this information.

The company is using this information to help promote Medici Alert Week, which is dedicated to raising awareness about the importance of having an emergency medical ID. The company is offering special discounts on the IDs during this week.
