Austin delegation seeks more Panola industry

Congressman Jim H. Oberstar Jr. of Minneapolis, Minnesota, announced that he will introduce a bill in the 108th Congress to provide additional funding for the Panola, Texas, area. The bill would provide $5 million in federal assistance for the Panola area, which includes Panola, Sabine, and Newton counties. The bill would be modeled after the Community Development Block Grant program, which provides funds for economic development projects in distressed areas.

This is the first time an Austin native has been cast in a starring role on a network TV series.

Students study Capitol

As part of their curriculum, students from local high schools visited the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C., to learn about the legislative process and to meet with their elected representatives. The students, who are involved in student government and are interested in careers in politics, had the opportunity to meet with members of Congress and to tour the Capitol building.

Officer sites need for law enforcement

During a recent tour of the Panola area, law enforcement officers from the Texas Rangers and the Panola County Sheriff's Department visited several high school districts to discuss the need for additional police officers. The officers pointed out that the current number of officers is insufficient to handle the increasing number of students and local citizens.

Officer says law enforcement needs aid

There are several instances where police officers have been killed in the line of duty. The police department is currently facing budget cuts, which has led to a decrease in the number of officers on the street. This has caused an increase in crime rates and has made it more difficult for officers to do their job effectively. In my opinion, we need to support our police officers by increasing the budget and providing them with the resources they need to succeed.

Here's one way to end all wars

I believe that the only way to end all wars is to promote peace and understanding between nations. This can be achieved through diplomatic efforts, such as negotiating treaties and agreements, and by fostering goodwill and cooperation. Additionally, investing in education and economic development can help to address the root causes of conflict and create a more stable and prosperous world.

Austin Highlights

Lawmakers begin belt tightening

Lawmakers are facing pressure to reduce the state budget, and they are considering cuts to various programs and services. Some proposals include reducing funding for education, healthcare, and public safety. These cuts could have significant impacts on the quality of life in Texas, and it is important to stay informed and engaged in the budget process.

Too many worries...

By Jerry Bannerman

Three things that hurt most are: first, when you find you are the only one who can't stand the loneliness; second, when you find you are the only one who is angry; and third, when you find you are the only one who is angry.

The music of this century is the music of the blues, and the blues are a language of sorrow.

USDA’s Food Assistance programs outlined USDA's Food Assistance programs outlined. In May 1963, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) began a food stamp program. This program, known as the Food Stamp Program, is designed to provide food for people in need. It works by giving people who qualify for assistance a set amount of money to buy food. The program is funded by the government, and the money is given to the participants in the form of vouchers or coupons. These coupons can be used to purchase food at participating stores. The program is aimed at helping eligible individuals and families meet their basic food needs. To qualify for the program, individuals and families must meet certain income eligibility requirements set by the government. For more information about the Food Stamp Program, contact your local USDA office or call 1-800-231-0676. Additionally, the USDA offers other food assistance programs, such as the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP). These programs work together to ensure that people have access to adequate nutrition and a healthy diet. For more information about these programs, visit the USDA website at www.usda.gov or call 1-800-231-0676.
