More smoke than fire

By Bill Baker

Bentonville -- Smoke billowed from the base as a large crowd of Texas Utilities Generating Co. employees gathered in Bentonville Sunday morning. They were there to demand answers to questions about their health, which have been raised since the explosion that occurred in the plant last week.

But it turned out to be more smoke than fire. The crowd was dispersed safely within minutes, and the only damage appeared to be a fire was on the roof of the plant. The plant was closed to traffic for the day as a precaution.

The workers expressed anger at the treatment they received at the hands of the company and its management.

They wanted to know why they had been exposed to the explosion and why they had not been told about the danger in advance.

"We were doing our job, not a fire," said one worker. "We're not trained to do that kind of work."

"If we had known, we would have been out of there," said another.

"And there was no notice, no nothing," said a third. "They just told us to go in and do our job."}

Panola County roundup-arrests now total 13

Arrests of six more suspects brought to 12 the number of persons accused in connection with the Four Corners drug bust. The arrests were made by the Panola County Sheriff's Office.

"It's just another day in the life of law enforcement," said Sheriff Jim bell. "We're doing our job and we'll keep doing it until we've made a dent in this problem."}

No 'bias' intended in EFISD vote story

A "no bias" statement was included in a newspaper article on the results of the recent election in the Panola/Montgomery Independent School District. The statement was included to emphasize the objectivity of the newspaper's reporting.

The statement read: "The newspaper's coverage of the election was fair and impartial."

However, some readers were not satisfied with the statement and called for a more detailed explanation. The newspaper responded by publishing a second statement, which read: "The newspaper's coverage of the election was fair and impartial, but it was not a perfect representation of the views of all voters."

Know Your Heritage

By Leslie A. Johnson

Does your family have roots in Texas? Has your family history been passed down through generations? Have you ever wondered where your family came from?

Recently, I had the opportunity to speak with my great-grandfather about his family's history in Texas. He was born in 1860, in the heart of the state. His family had been in Texas for generations, and he was proud to be a part of this rich heritage.

He told me about his great-grandfather, who was a pioneer who helped settle the area. He spoke about the challenges they faced during that time, but also the pride they felt in building a new life in America.

I was amazed to learn about the history of my family in Texas, and I realized how important it is to preserve these stories. Each generation has a unique perspective, and by listening to these stories, we can gain a deeper understanding of our past.

So, whether you're a Texan by birth or by adoption, take the time to explore your family's history. You may be surprised by what you uncover about your ancestors and their contributions to the state of Texas.

Break-through in Macedonia

By Jerry Mancini

A recent breakthrough in Macedonia has sparked excitement among researchers and scientists alike. The discovery has the potential to revolutionize the field of medicine and provide new insights into the human genome.

The breakthrough was made by a team of researchers working at the Macedonian Institute of Science and Technology. They were studying a rare genetic disorder that affects millions of people worldwide. After years of research, they finally identified the gene responsible for the condition.

This discovery could lead to new treatments and therapies for those affected by the disorder. It also opens up new avenues for research into the function of the gene and its role in the body.

The researchers are now working on developing a vaccine to prevent the condition. They hope to have it ready for clinical trials within the next year.

This breakthrough is a testament to the power of scientific research and the importance of collaboration. It also highlights the potential impact that science can have on improving the lives of people around the world.
