Along with blossoms come stained fingers and...

By Earl Chandler

Along with spring, blossoms come to many areas of Texas. Blossoms are beautiful and fragrant, but they also bring a problem: stained fingers. This is a common occurrence in areas where magnolias and other flowering trees are prevalent.

"When the blossoms bloom, people start picking them to use as decorations," said Chandler. "But many don’t realize that the sap can be quite strong and can stain clothes and hands."}

Federal aid fell by more than $420 million

HAVER, Al 1992 Texas budget for the 1992-93 fiscal year. The state of Texas has received Federal aid for various programs, but the amount has decreased significantly. In 1992, the aid fell by more than $420 million, affecting many programs that depend on Federal funding.

"Texas has been affected by the cutbacks in Federal aid," said Haver. "Many programs have had to adjust their budgets and reduce services as a result."}

PARKING PROBLEM

I’m walking down the street of West Orange today and there is a very long line of cars parked on the side of the street. This is a problem in the area. It is causing traffic congestion and is not safe for pedestrians. It is time for the city to take action and find a solution to this issue.

WHAT ABOUT JUNK

I just had a garage sale last weekend and I was thinking about the amount of junk that was sold. It is amazing how much stuff people can get rid of.

ANOTHER WRECK

We had another car accident on the highway today. It is too bad that people can’t drive safely.

WHAT ABOUT BONUS

I heard that there is a bonus program for teachers in the area. It is good to see that the state is rewarding them for their hard work.

Life on the Sabine not always a splendored thing

By Earl Cherow

Life on the Sabine is indeed a mixed bag. There are the2 Redheads who live on the bayou and all its ways. There are those who live in the sliding boat and the houseboat. And there are those who live in the homes along the bayou. Each has its own way of life and its own set of problems.

The Redheads, for example, are not always as happy as they may seem. They have to deal with the brackish water and the constant humidity. They have to worry about their home being stolen and the constant noise from the nearby boat traffic.

The sliding boat and houseboat dwellers have their own set of problems. They have to worry about the rising water levels and the constant threat of flooding. They have to worry about the cost of living and the constant need for repairs.

The homes along the bayou have their own set of problems. They have to worry about the noise from the nearby boat traffic and the constant threat of flooding. They have to worry about the cost of living and the constant need for repairs.

In conclusion, life on the Sabine is indeed a mixed bag. It has its ups and downs, its good times and its bad times. But it is what it is, and those who live there simply have to make the best of it.

Delta Kappa Gamma Society honors founders at May meeting

In addition to the regular meeting of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society on Thursday, May 17, 1963, at the South Trinity Center, there was an event to honor the founders of the society. The meeting was held on the campus of South Trinity University.

The Delta Kappa Gamma Society is a professional society of women educators who promote the professional development of women in education and the enhancement of the educational process. The society was founded in 1906 and has grown to include over 100,000 members in 75 countries around the world.

This event was held to honor the founders of the society, who were instrumental in establishing the organization. The founders were recognized for their contributions to education and the advancement of women in the field.

The meeting included a presentation on the history of Delta Kappa Gamma, as well as a discussion of its current activities and goals.

The attendees were encouraged to participate in the society's service projects and to continue to support the mission of promoting educational excellence and growth.

The evening concluded with a gala dinner, where members had the opportunity to network and celebrate the achievements of the society.
