Hospital fund problem solved for now

By Van Miller

The board of managers for Peninsula General Hospital in the Peninsula-Williamsburg area found a solution to the hospital's financial problems this week. The board's decision to establish a new fund, the "Hospital Endowment Fund," will provide a steady stream of income to the hospital to help defray the cost of operations. The fund will be established with a $100,000 endowment, and additional contributions will be sought from the community.

Solid waste group key to cooperation

The Joint Committee on Solid Waste should take the lead in cooperation in addressing issues such as those affecting the Coffeyville area. It is key that the committee's efforts be supported by the cooperation of all concerned parties. This cooperation is critical for achieving the long-term goals of environmental protection and sustainable development. The committee's initiatives can serve as a model for other areas looking to address similar issues. Cooperation is essential to ensure the success of these efforts.

Man trapped in truck all morning
Victim found eight hours after wreck

As First Checkers, despite the fact that he was only in his early twenties and had been working in a construction crew for only two years, he was praised for his quick thinking and bravery in the face of a dangerous situation.

The accident occurred during the early morning hours when the victim was working on a construction site in the city. He was in the process of maneuvering a forklift when it suddenly began to tip over, trapping him underneath.

His coworkers, disturbed by the noise, rushed to the scene and immediately called for help. Upon arrival, firefighters and paramedics worked tirelessly to free the trapped man. The incident serves as a reminder of the dangers that can arise in the construction industry and the importance of proper safety measures.

City opens bids on Phase II water-sewer project

The City of Cameron is currently seeking bids for the construction of a new water-sewer project in Phase II. The project is expected to cost $3 million and will include the construction of new pipelines, as well as the replacement of old ones.

Commissions to reduce JPs, constables

The Cameron County Commission has decided to reduce the number of judges and constables in the county. The decision was made in an effort to reduce costs and improve efficiency. The current number of judges is 12, and the number of constables is 20. The new plan aims to reduce the number of judges to 9 and the number of constables to 15.

Hospital loss high

The loss of the Cameron County Hospital has been a significant blow to the community. The hospital provided much-needed healthcare services to residents of the area, and its closure has left many people without access to medical care.

The loss of the hospital has been particularly difficult for the residents of the low-income areas of the county, who have relied on the hospital for essential services.

Livestock report

Grain prices have risen sharply in recent weeks, with the price of corn reaching its highest level in years. The increase is due to a combination of factors, including a drought in the United States and increased demand from China.

Holiday lighting contest deadline draws near

The Cameron County Fairground is currently accepting entries for its annual holiday lighting contest. The contest is open to all residents of the county, and entries must be submitted by December 1st. The winners will be announced on December 10th.

Baked goods make good gifts by mail

Baked goods make good gifts by mail. The selection of what to send is a matter of personal taste, but some popular choices include cookies, cakes, brownies, and other baked goods. It's important to choose gifts that are appropriate for the occasion and the recipient's taste. Gift baskets can be a great way to send a variety of baked goods and other treats.

Organizational plans help make Christmas gift shopping easier

While the Christmas holiday season is a busy time, it's important to plan ahead for gift-giving. Organizational plans can help make Christmas gift shopping easier. This includes setting a budget, creating a list of desired gifts, and considering the preferences of the recipient. It's also important to consider the timing of the holiday season and when the gifts will be delivered. Planning ahead can help ensure a stress-free gift-giving experience.
