Editorial:

Haley proposal sounds reasonable

A front page headline in the Columbus newspaper on Friday morning highlighted an editorial that ran in The Atlanta Journal Constitution. The editorial, entitled "Haley proposal sounds reasonable," discussed the proposals of Governor Haley in the state of Georgia. According to the editorial, Governor Haley has proposed a plan to improve highways and public transportation in the state. The plan includes funding for new roads and public transportation systems. The editorial states that Governor Haley's proposals sound reasonable and should be considered by the state legislature.

The editorial argues that the proposed improvements in highway and public transportation infrastructure are necessary to support economic growth and development in the state. The editorial states that the proposed funding would be used to improve existing roads and public transportation systems, as well as to build new infrastructure. The editorial also notes that the proposed improvements would be beneficial to regional and state economies, providing increased access to markets and job opportunities.

The editorial concludes by urging readers to support Governor Haley's proposals and encourage their representatives to consider the plan. The editorial states that the proposed improvements are crucial to the state's economic growth and development, and that support is needed from both the public and elected officials to ensure the proposals are implemented.

The article is written in a formal tone and includes quotes from Governor Haley and other experts in the field of transportation infrastructure. The article provides a brief overview of the proposed plan and highlights its key features, such as funding for new roads and public transportation systems. The article also notes the potential benefits of the proposed improvements on the state's economy.

Bursting pipes

- As Mrs. Jack Darnell of the House of the Lived in the town of Sumter, they were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Darnell, Donald Darnell, David Darnell, Daniel Darnell, and Rodney Darnell.

- As Mrs. Darnell was reportedly very good in the kitchen, the family gathered around her for the Christmas dinner. Mrs. Darnell prepared a delicious feast for the family, including roast turkey, mashed potatoes, and all the traditional Christmas sides.

- As the family settled in for the meal, Mrs. Darnell noticed a strange sound coming from the kitchen. She ran to investigate and found that the pipes in the kitchen had burst, causing water to flood the kitchen and the surrounding area.

- As she rushed to turn off the water, Mrs. Darnell noticed a strange odor in the air. She called her husband, Mr. Darnell, who arrived with a plumber. The plumber soon fixed the burst pipes and the kitchen was again ready for use.

Fires

- As Mrs. Anna Kaplan of the House of the Lived in the town of Sumter, they were Mr. and Mrs. Anna Kaplan, David Kaplan, and Daniel Kaplan.

- As Mrs. Kaplan was cooking dinner for the family, she noticed a strange smell in the kitchen. She called her husband, Mr. Kaplan, who arrived with a fire extinguisher. The family soon realized that they had a small fire in the kitchen.

- As they worked to extinguish the fire, Mrs. Kaplan noticed a strange noise coming from the stove. She ran to investigate and found that the stove had burst into flames.

- As the family worked to put out the fire, they noticed that the fire had spread to the ceiling. They called the fire department, who arrived quickly and put out the fire.

Police investigate theft, assault

Carthage Police Department are investigating a theft and assault during the past week. The victim reportedly lost over $500 in cash and several valuable items.

- According to the report, the victim was walking down the street when a man approached him. The man reportedly grabbed the victim's wallet and ran away.

- The victim reportedly struggled with the man, causing him to drop his wallet and phone. The victim then called the police and filed a report.

- As the investigation continues, the police are urging anyone with information to come forward. They are offering a reward for any information leading to the arrest of the suspect.

Moms prove theory wrong

Moms prove theory wrong

We admit it, we hate with every fiber of our being. Tory, Pam, and Robby are all on the same page when it comes to their children. They are typical of the mothers who are always on the lookout for something to criticize their kids. They are not afraid to point out the mistakes they see in their children.

It's not that the mothers are unloving or overly critical. It's just that they believe that sometimes it takes a bit of a kick in the pants to get their children to do what they need to do. And by 'kick in the pants,' they mean anything from a gentle reminder to a stern lecture.

"We just want them to be the best they can be," say Mrs. Smith, who has four children. "And if that means giving them a little push, then so be it." Mrs. Smith's children are all college students and she often finds herself wondering if they are doing enough.

"I know they are capable of more," she says. "But sometimes I wonder if they are pushing themselves enough. Maybe I should have been a little tougher with them." Mrs. Smith's words are echoed by many other mothers in the city.

Some parents might find themselves feeling a bit guilty for criticizing their children. After all, they love their kids and want the best for them. But for these mothers, criticism is just a part of life. They know that it's important to be honest with their children and help them to grow.

"I don't want them to think I'm perfect," says Mrs. Johnson, who has two children. "I want them to see that even adults make mistakes. And if I can help them see that, then that's a good thing." Mrs. Johnson's children are both in high school and she finds herself giving them advice on a regular basis.

"I just want them to know that I'm there for them," she says. "And if I have to be a little tough sometimes, then so be it." Mrs. Johnson's words are a reminder that sometimes it takes a mother's criticism to make her children realize their potential.

So, if you're a mother out there who finds herself criticizing your children too much, don't worry. You're not alone. But remember, it's all in the name of love. And who knows, maybe your children will end up thanking you later.
BISD cites 1983 improvements

BISD's 1983 improvements included new ponds and landscaping, a new roof, and new HVAC systems. These improvements were intended to enhance the educational environment for students. The school board is proud of the progress made and plans to continue investing in the future of BISD.

County appraisal district says...

Property tax rendition filing begins

The Panola County Appraisal District says that property owners should file the renditions at the risk of losing the taxation benefits of their properties.

"There is no penalty for not filing a rendition," said Director Jack Ellis, "but if you file late, you will not be able to receive the benefits." Ellis pointed out that late filings can result in a loss of benefits for the current year.

The deadline for filing is December 1st, and the renditions must be postmarked by this date to be valid. Ellis encouraged property owners to file early to avoid any complications or delays.

The renditions are used by the appraisal district to determine the value of the property for taxation purposes. Any changes in the value of the property must be reflected in the rendition.

For more information, property owners can contact the Panola County Appraisal District at 903-655-5656.
Grand jury clears police officer

Bexar County

Carlsbad Police Officer Tony Wright has been cleared by a grand jury of any wrongdoing in the shooting death of a suspect.

Wright was involved in a confrontation with the suspect, who was armed and had led police on a high-speed chase. The suspect was later found dead at the scene of the confrontation.

The grand jury reviewed evidence and heard testimony from witnesses, ultimately deciding that there was no evidence of wrongdoing by Wright.

The case has been ongoing for several months, and Wright has been on paid leave during that time.

Beckville board splits on Nutt

A special meeting of the Beckville Independent School District Board of Trustees was held Tuesday night to discuss the appointment of a new superintendent.

The board was divided on the issue, with three members voting in favor of the appointment and three against it.

The board also voted to hire a new director of operations, who will oversee the district's facilities and maintenance.

Informant's arrests cancel marijuana sales case

A marijuana sales case in the Panola County District Court has been canceled due to the arrest of an informant.

The informant, who was scheduled to testify in the case, was arrested on charges of possession of marijuana.

The case was previously scheduled to go to trial in early February.

County delays hospital action

Panola County Commissioners have delayed a decision on a new hospital in the county.

The commissioners had previously planned to vote on the project at their January meeting, but postponed the vote until their February meeting.

The project is expected to cost $50 million and will include a new hospital facility and an urgent care center.

First State announces automated teller plans

First State Bank has announced plans to install automated teller machines in several locations in the region.

The bank plans to install the ATMs in the town of Quitman, as well as in Quitman and Quitman Heights.

The ATMs will allow customers to access their accounts from 24/7, and will provide a faster and more convenient way to conduct transactions.

Noted speaker set for chamber event

Speaker Nancy Pelosi will be the keynote speaker at the Panola County Chamber of Commerce annual banquet on March 10.

Pelosi has served as Speaker of the House since 2011 and is the first woman to hold the position.

The event will be held at the Panola County Civic Center and will feature several guest speakers and entertainment.
