Hospital financial health improving

Although controversies had surrounded the Panola General Hospital lease agreement, the hospital's financial health is improving, according to the new management. The hospital board, meeting Wednesday, heard a report that showed a $150,000 surplus for the fiscal year ending in June. The surplus is the result of the hospital's efforts to reduce costs and increase revenues. The new management has implemented several changes, including a new billing system and a new marketing strategy, that have contributed to the hospital's financial success.

County okays incinerator funds

Panola County Commissioners on Monday approved the construction of a new incinerator in downtown Marshall. The incinerator will be used to dispose of solid waste generated by the county. The incinerator will be built on a plot of land located on the north side of the courthouse. The incinerator is expected to begin operation in April. The county has contracted with a private company to operate the incinerator, and the company will be responsible for all expenses associated with the facility. The county has invested $500,000 in the construction of the incinerator.

Hospital's financial health shows upsing

It could be that they would want to have an executive session in order to do that, in order to start their planning and workshops and things of that nature. But that was the only change that we saw, and we saw that in the context of the entire presentation of the report. It's important to note that the hospital staff, in particular the executive team, was present and engaged throughout the meeting, and their contributions were noted.

Local physician is improving

Railroads and rattlers never mixed until Daddy Bill talked

By Bill Childress

The day we rode in a freight train to the old Panola County Fair, I never thought I'd hear the story of how my Dad solved the problem of getting the rattlers away from the railroad bed. It was a real eye-opener.

The railroad from Sabine to Lumberton was a busy line feeding the deep south with wood and lumber. But the rattlers were a problem. They'd sometimes get stuck in the ties, or the rails would chew them up. It was a real hazard.

Then one day we heard that Dad had talked to the crew chief and made a deal. For every rattler they caught, he'd pay them a dollar. And that's how it started.

One of the issues that keeps coming up is the need for more water in the area. People are worried about how we're going to irrigate our crops. I spoke with a local expert who has some ideas on how we can conserve water.

THE FILLIES

ATHENS - Paula could not keep a field goal from hitting the net even though packing the lane with players to make it difficult for the Fillies to get the ball up and down. Athens clipped the Fillies, 70-30, Saturday afternoon. What can I say? We had our shot attempted, but the ball would not go in. We were not hitting the shots we had. Broad Social Security changes made

Arlyn Schwinn

The state court ruling on Social Security benefits recently made a number of changes to the way benefits are calculated, particularly for widows and widowers.

The court ruled that the Social Security Administration must adjust its formulas for calculating benefits for widows and widowers to reflect changes in the cost of living. This means that benefits for these individuals will increase over time, as the cost of living increases.

The court also ruled that the Social Security Administration must provide additional benefits to widows and widowers who lost their spouses when they were under the age of 60. This means that these beneficiaries will receive additional benefits in recognition of the hardships they have faced.

The court's decision has been appealed by the Social Security Administration, but it is hoped that the ruling will eventually be upheld by the higher courts.
