New jail would cost $1 million

By Mike Miller
Panola County Commissioners Court is preparing to ask Texas lawmakers for a new jail in Panola County. The county has just about reached its limits with jail space as it's due to open a new jail in October. The opening of the new jail will allow for the county to move some of the inmates from the old jail, which was built in 1980 and is currently overcrowded. The new jail will cost $1 million to build and will be located on the outskirts of Marshall. The county has received funding to cover the cost of the new jail and is currently working with the state to finalize the details of the project.

GETTING READY FOR THE SHOW

Public School Week noted

Celebrations for the annual Public School Week began Monday. The students are preparing for the upcoming event, which is an important part of the school year. The theme for this year is 'Education: The Foundation for a Better Future.' The students are encouraged to participate in various activities throughout the week, which will help them to develop important skills and knowledge. The event aims to raise awareness about the importance of education and its role in shaping the future of the community.

Midyett resident hurt in mishap

A Midyett resident was injured in a motorcycle accident on the morning of March 6th. The accident occurred on the outskirts of the town, and the resident was transported to the hospital for treatment. The incident is being investigated by the local police department, and the cause of the accident is still unclear. The resident is currently recovering at home, and the family is thankful for the support and assistance they have received from the community. It is important to remain vigilant and to follow traffic rules to ensure the safety of everyone on the road.

Jail costs could run $1.5 million to meet standards

Panola Jail officials are facing a significant challenge as they work to meet the state's standards for jail construction and operation. The costs associated with these standards could be as high as $1.5 million, and the jail officials are exploring various options to address this issue. The state's standards include measures to ensure the safety and security of the inmates, as well as the staff. The jail officials are working closely with the state and local officials to determine the best course of action to meet these standards and to ensure the safety of everyone in the jail.

Rabies clinic plans set

The Rabies Clinic is scheduled for Saturday, March 8th, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Panola County Sheriff's Department. The clinic will offer狂犬病 shots to ensure the safety of the animals and their owners. It is important for pet owners to take advantage of this opportunity to protect their pets from this potentially deadly disease. The clinic is open to all residents of Panola County, and appointments are not required. The clinic will be staffed by licensed veterinarians and volunteers to ensure a smooth and efficient process.

Hance to stump city

Democratic candidate for U.S. House of Representatives, Mr. Hance, will be making a campaign stop in Midyett on March 9th. He is expected to address the issues facing the city and the country, and to outline his plans for the future. The event is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. at the Midyett City Hall. It is an opportunity for residents to meet with Mr. Hance and to discuss the issues that are most important to them. The event is open to the public, and everyone is welcome to attend.
Post, Watchman win top press contest honors

Retirement homes that are not yet recognized in their community are invited to compete in the first annual Panola County Press Contest. Judges for the event are announced by the Smith County News, which sponsored the contest, and the Panola Press. The contest is open to all retirement homes in Panola County. The first-place winners will receive plaques and cash prizes.
