Thanks To:

Elect Bill Steptoe

In my past two statements, I have talked about the C.I.S.D. being one of the largest businesses, not only in economic size, but also in our responsibility to provide for the needs of our children and our community. The C.I.S.D. Board of Trustees has to be the primary focus of all our decisions. Many of these decisions will affect both you, as taxpayers, and our children for several years. You can have a voice in these decisions by voting for the candidates on Saturday and running for the position of your choice. I would like to be that candidate and represent you in the C.I.S.D. E.C. Come, E.C. Go

Spelling a name wrong does have its limitations

Colin Odgers

As people’s lives would have it, spelling a name incorrectly can have serious consequences in the world of business. A recent issue of the Panola Watchman newspaper illustrates the problem.

At the Panola County Chamber of Commerce, the name of a local business owner was misspelled in a recent publication. Despite the obvious error, the newspaper staff decided to correct the issue before it became too late.

The original article featured a profile of a local business owner, named "E.C. Come." However, the staff found that the correct spelling was "E.C. Go." The staff quickly corrected the error, but the damage had already been done.

The name "E.C. Come" was misspelled in the article, and the business owner was upset. He had been struggling to get the correct pronunciation of his name right, and now it was all wrong. The staff knew what they were doing, but the wrong spelling was unacceptable.

The staff at the Panola Watchman decided to correct the issue, but the damage had already been done. The story was already published, and now the name was misspelled.

Senator says proposals require caution

By Mike Miller

Proposals for major changes in the school district's financial systems and operations are on the agenda for the upcoming Board of Education meeting. The proposals are part of the district's ongoing efforts to improve efficiency and address financial challenges.

The proposals include changes to the district's budgeting and financial management systems, as well as recommendations for streamlining operations and reducing costs. The district has faced financial challenges in recent years, and the proposals are intended to help address these issues.

"We need to make sure that we are being as efficient as possible with the resources we have," said Board President Jane Smith. "These proposals represent a significant step forward in that direction."
