Member of the Carthage City Council
discusses possible courses of action

On Tuesday, the Carthage City Council discussed the possibility of ordering a building condemned due to its unsafe condition. The building in question is located on a corner lot on Main Street and has been the subject of complaints from neighbors for several months. The council was informed that the property was not properly maintained and that structural issues have arisen that could pose a risk to public safety.

Young Historians earn History Fair award ribbons

At Baker-Koonce school

The history club at Baker-Koonce School recently sponsored a History Fair, where students presented projects on various historical topics. The projects were evaluated based on historical accuracy, research, presentation, and creativity. The awards were given to the students who demonstrated the highest levels of excellence in their work.

The Young Historians (grades 3-5) won first place in the History Fair. Their project was on the history of the school, focusing on its founding and early years. The students presented a comprehensive and engaging presentation that captivated the judges.

The Middle Historians (grades 6-8) also won first place for their project on the history of the town. They researched and presented on significant events and developments that shaped the history of the area.

The High Historians (grades 9-12) won first place for their project on the history of the region. Their presentation was detailed and covered a wide range of topics, including the impact of natural disasters and the growth of the local economy.

The awards were presented to the students in a ceremony held at the school. The winners received ribbons and certificates of recognition for their hard work and dedication to learning about history.

A LOOK AT CHURCH ACTIVITIES AND EVENTS IN OUR COMMUNITY

Sunday, April 8, 1966

Allison Chapel marker dedicated by bishop today

Allison Chapel Methodist Church in Blue Ridge was dedi¬ cated by Bishop John H. P. Overton of the North Georgia Conference of the United Methodist Church on April 6. The church was dedicated by Bishop Overton, who was accompanied by the Reverend R. W. Jackson, pastor of the church, and the Reverend O. W. Smith, associate pastor. The dedication service was attended by a large congregation, including many who had been instrumental in the construction of the church. The Allison Chapel marker was unveiled during the dedication ceremony, and a special service was held to commemorate the occasion. The Allison Chapel marker is a historic landmark and a reminder of the early history of the Methodist church in the Blue Ridge area.

Knox ministers at Abundant Life

Knox minister Lewis A. Gooch was scheduled to visit Abundant Life Church in Blue Ridge on April 10, 1966. The visit was part of a series of ministerial visits to various churches in the area. The purpose of the visits was to provide spiritual support and guidance to the congregation. The Abundant Life Church was a vibrant community center in Blue Ridge, and the ministerial visits were an important part of the church's outreach program.

Strength for Living

As we close this page, we turn our focus to the upcoming calendar of events. The month of April is filled with exciting activities, including the annual Easter egg hunt, which will be held on April 15. The Easter egg hunt is a popular event, attracting families from all over the community. Additionally, the Blue Ridge Community Church will be hosting a special service on April 17, celebrating the resurrection of Jesus Christ. The church has prepared a series of events to commemorate this important occasion.

First Things First

When our teens were once in a classroom, they would break bread, and the church would be our home. But the world has changed, and so have the needs of our youth. Today, we must take a new approach to reaching out to our young people. The Church of God in Blue Ridge has developed a new youth program, called "First Things First," which is designed to meet the needs of today's teenagers. The program includes a youth group meeting on Sunday evenings, a weekly Bible study, and a variety of other activities. The Church of God in Blue Ridge is committed to providing a supportive and nurturing environment for our youth.
