The Chautauqua County Community Action Program has implemented a self-insurance plan that has saved the organization money. "We have seen a significant reduction in our insurance costs," said Program Director Jane Smith. "We are thrilled with the results of our self-insurance plan." The program has been well-received by the employees and the community.

What happens if there's no sugar for the lemonade?

By Fred Chisholm

Editorial:
County saves on insurance

People every now and then forgets America's most popular insurance is auto insurance. In this area, people have been driving for decades without an auto policy, but now they must have one to maintain their good social standing.

And the reason is simple: they are willing to pay better for better service.

The same applies to county savings on insurance. The county has been able to save on insurance by negotiating better rates and policies with carriers. This has led to a reduction in the cost of insurance for the county, and has helped maintain their good social standing.

Texas missing out in president race

It's nothing to be proud of, but it's a good thing for people who don't vote. The Texas president race is essentially a two-way race between the two major parties. It's not a good idea to vote for a minor party candidate, as it could hurt their chances of winning.

We recommend the readers to vote for the major party candidates, as it will ensure the best chance of winning.
