The proposed county budget hits snag

By Earl Cheatham

The city of any size 50 years or more is rarely on the move. Monday's proposed county budget presented some indications general support for most positions. Expect some opposition, however, to a recommended 10 percent pay increase for county employees.

While there were no big feelings expressed in regard to proposed figures for general operations and construction of a new jail, a significant number made out of hand some areas of the proposed.

The general attitude demonstrated by the group was that construction of a new county jail would be funded while the decision belongs to the county rather than a "nonprofit project" under state or federal statutes.

Some expressed a hope that the county could shave enough money off the proposed budget to remain at the same figure as last year.

Gragg, who is a local school board member and a state legislator, was asked to comment on the budget.

"I am concerned about the amount of money that is being spent on education," Gragg said. "I think it is important that we continue to support our schools and provide them with the necessary resources to succeed.

"I am also concerned about the amount of money that is being spent on road maintenance and repairs. It is important that we maintain our roads in good condition to ensure the safety of our residents."

"But it won't go any further," the state's five-man board said. Regular and seasonal work has been posted outside the building, and the board has been moving slowly but steadily in recent years to try to meet its commitments to the citizens of the state.

But the decision to stop the work is a serious setback for the board, which has been struggling to meet its commitments in recent years. CPD investigates theft, criminal mischief
Carriage Police Department investigators were called to a residence on April 17 for reports of a theft. A 2005 Toyota Corolla was parked in the driveway when the incident occurred. The victim, a 32-year-old woman, reported that she had lost her keys and did not remember locking her car. The parked car was opened, and the door was loosened by cutting the lock. A 2005 Toyota Corolla, possibly with the keys, was stolen.

Why Is Newspaper Advertising More Effective?
1. CRISP-READER: Recent polls show that newspaper advertise-
ing is combined more successfully than any other medium. Radio and television are basically entertainment media, and the audience is sparse that broadband ads are pushed to entertainment values rather than the nature of online judgment. They think of all the jobs that people in the audience really care about...the newspaper advertising is the best medium.

2. Accessibility: Newspaper readers are sensitive to the United States Postal Service and can be contacted easily. You think of all the newspapers that people in the audience really care about...the newspaper advertising is the best medium.

3. Penetration: Newspaper readers are more frequent and less likely to be the right size of the right time to buy the message.

4. Impact: Total broadcast media is often measured only in terms of audience. Unlike broadcast media, the newspaper advertising is the best medium.
Teacher pay raises could hit 3% percent

Panola County School system is among many school districts across the state that are facing budget constraints and cuts to teacher salaries. The Panola County School Board has been struggling with the economics of education funding, which has led to a reduction in teacher pay. The current pay raise for teachers is expected to be 3%, which will be effective for the upcoming school year.

Panola County School Board members are anticipating a difficult task in negotiating the salary scale for teachers. The current teacher salary range is $34,000 to $50,000, and the proposed raise will increase this range to $35,000 to $52,000.

Teacher salaries in Panola County are among the lowest in the state, and the school district is struggling to attract and retain qualified teachers. The school board is hoping that this raise will be enough to offset the effects of inflation and attract more teachers to the district.

The Panola County School Board has been working with the Panola County Education Association (PCEA) to negotiate the terms of the new contract. The PCEA represents the teachers in the school district and is responsible for negotiating the terms of the contract with the school board.

PCEA President, Ms. Linda Johnson, said the teachers are hoping for a larger raise to make up for the effects of inflation and to attract more qualified educators to the district.

The new contract will be negotiated in the coming months, and the school board hopes to have it finalized by the end of the year.

Crawford outlines House Bill 72

Crawford outlines House Bill 72, which is designed to address the issue of school funding and improve education in the state. The bill proposes an increase in funding for public schools, with a focus on improving teacher salaries and reducing class size.

Crawford said that the current system of education funding is inadequate, and that the state needs to do more to support public schools. The bill would provide additional funding to schools, with a focus on teacher salaries and class size reduction.

The bill would also provide funding for technology and infrastructure improvements, and would increase funding for special education and gifted programs.

Crawford said that the bill is a step in the right direction, and that it will help improve education in the state. He said that the state needs to do more to support public schools, and that this bill is a good start.

The bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives, and Crawford said that he is hopeful that it will pass and become law.

County employment rate on the rise

The Panola County Employment rate has been on the rise in recent months, with more people finding employment and job opportunities.

The Panola County Employment Office has been working with local businesses to provide job training and placement services, and this has helped to increase the employment rate in the county.

The Panola County Employment Office has also been working with the state to increase funding for job training programs, and this has helped to provide more opportunities for people to find employment.

The Panola County Employment rate is now at 6.5%, which is up from 5.8% last year. This is a positive sign for the county, and it shows that the economy is improving and more people are finding employment.

The Panola County Employment Office is currently working with local businesses to provide more job training and placement services, and this is expected to continue to help increase the employment rate in the county.

The Panola County Employment Office is also working with the state to increase funding for job training programs, and this is expected to help provide more opportunities for people to find employment.

The Panola County Employment rate is expected to continue to increase in the coming months, and this is good news for the county and its residents.
