Defense is still vital

By Frank C. Beal

The Department of Defense is in a unique position of being both a source of jobs and a problem to the nation. In 1985, President Ronald Reagan proposed a defense budget that was 25% higher than the previous year. This year, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has proposed a budget that is 5% lower than the previous year.

The Department of Defense employs over 3 million people and is a major employer in the United States. However, it is also a source of cuts in the defense budget, which can have a significant impact on the economy.

Weinberger's proposed budget includes cuts to the defense budget, which could have a negative impact on the economy.

Texas A&M called "poor region"

In a recent report, the Department of Education classified Texas A&M University as a "poor region." This is based on the fact that the university is located in a region with a high poverty rate.

The report states that Texas A&M is in a "poor" region because of the high poverty rate in the area. However, the university is located in a region with a high poverty rate.

Call Talk-Line

Presidential candidates concentrate final efforts

With Election Day less than a week away, voters are eagerly awaiting the final days of campaigning in which candidates will mobilize their troops. In the final days of the campaign, the candidates will be making their final push to win the vote.

One of the most interesting aspects of the campaign is the use of talk lines. Talk lines are a new phenomenon in modern campaigning, and they allow candidates to reach out to voters in a direct and personal way.

Talk lines are popular among young voters, who are more likely to be influenced by direct personal contact. In the final days of the campaign, talk lines will be a key tool for candidates as they try to win the vote.

Postmaster commends honesty of children

Mary E. Brown, left, and Janet C. Childs, both employees of the Panola County Post Office, are shown with the check totaling $26.88 that was turned in to the post office by a child. The child found money that had been lost by customers and turned it in to Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Turner, owners of the house where the children had found it. Mrs. Turner said that the money was returned to the customers, and the child who found it was praised by the postmaster for the honesty displayed.

Strategy paid off

When the Athens center started the football season, many people thought they would be a great team. The Bulldogs had a strong defense, and they were expected to do well. However, the team did not live up to expectations. This year, when the Bulldogs started the season, they again had a strong defense, but this time they emphasized a different strategy. The team worked on developing a more balanced offense, and this strategy paid off. The Bulldogs won their first six games and were considered one of the best teams in the state.

Crowd gathers at festival

By Mrs. Dorothy Wood

The 21st Annual Harris Chapel Harvest Festival was held Sunday evening of the Harris Chapel Community Center.

The weather cooperated as it had been raining each day for several days. The rain held off for the occasion.

A large crowd began to gather about 6 p.m. The kitchen was opened at that time with other booths opening a few minutes later.

There were several pretty cakes for the cake walk, all of which were glossy and with their borders glistening with their icing.

About 7 p.m. the costume pageant was held, with the judges being Ollie, Ollie, and Melvin Morgan. They judged the winners and all the entries.

Doris Williams was all dressed in the suit that she wore. She had been to the store, and she would be back, but there wouldn't be any room for her because she was too fat.

The crowd was large, and the food was good. Children, as well as adults, enjoyed the games.

The drawing was held about 9 p.m. Winners were

- Carolyn Wrensoad, door prize winner: Joy Goodall, Trice, a $150.00 gift certificate to the Chamber of Commerce.
- Bob Models, door prize winner: John Goodall, a $100.00 gift certificate to the Chamber of Commerce.

Many thanks to all who helped with the festival.
