Opposition to pari-mutuel betting bill escalates; water legislation stressed

To the Editor:

We are appalled at the recent behavior of the State House, where an unauthorized capture of the legislature has taken place. This is a violation of the laws and regulations designed to protect the integrity of our democratic institutions. We call on all members of the legislature to refrain from such actions and to work towards a fair and transparent legislative process.

City to consider tax collection agreement

Following is the testimony of Carthage City Commissioner on the necessity of moving the city to a monthly pay system. Commissioner also addressed the issue of property tax collection and the benefits of a monthly pay system. Commissioner expressed concern that the current system is not cost-effective and suggested that the city consider implementing a monthly pay system to reduce costs.

Wells also noted that the city's property tax collection would be improved with Blair's plan and the development of a computerized system. The city would be able to track properties, ensuring that taxes are collected efficiently.

The agreement would allow the city to collect taxes on a monthly basis, providing a more stable revenue stream. The city would also be able to better manage its budget and reduce the burden on property owners.

Wells concluded by expressing the need for the city to consider the proposed agreement, which would benefit both the city and its property owners. The city would be able to improve property tax collection and reduce costs, providing a more stable revenue stream for the city's operations.
