Edwards named citizen of year

Better known in a broader sphere of the people of Carthage and Panola County as a local baseball enthusiast, "Bo" Edward Reed, for his outstanding endeavors in both areas. Third edward was named Thursday night as recipient of the second Citizen of the Year Award.

The special annual present-tion of the Panola County Chamber of Commerce honored the creator of the award in 1953.

Making the presentation were adora and delivering the special award to Edwards was the 1953
Citizen of the Year, Jerry Han-tin.

The award presentation Thursday night opened the annual Panola County Chamber of Commerce banquet since the award took place since the award's inception in 1953, and mentioned the award as a new honor that had been given honorary titles of Mr. Baseball and Mr. Nose because of his contributions to the community since the award's inception in 1953.

Although Edwards and his wife, Phyllis, are natives of Carthage, they have made the community their home since their marriage, and have contributed to its growth, they have shown dedication.

The conversation used to make sense...but it died

By John Edwards

The conversation used to make sense...but it died. The conversation had been a steady fixture in the town for many years, but recent developments have caused it to fade away.

The conversation was a popular gathering spot for town residents. It was a place where people could come together to share ideas and discuss important issues.

The conversation is gone, but the memories remain. The town will continue to find ways to come together and to make sense of the challenges it faces.

Walks, rain hurt Panola

By T. J. WARD

There are still teams in the Panola County playoffs who have the desire to win. One of those teams is the Ponies of Carthage. In what has been a thrilling season, the Ponies have shown that they are capable of winning games and that they can make it to the final round of the playoffs. In a game against the Seminoles of Seminole, the Ponies were victorious, winning 11-4. This win has put the Ponies in a strong position to make it to the final round.

In the ninth inning, the Ponies had an opportunity to extend their lead. With the bases loaded and one out, the Ponies pitcher delivered a strikeout, ending the inning. The Ponies were able to hold off the Seminole threat and secure the win.

The Ponies are now set to face the Seminoles in the final round of the playoffs. The semi-final game is scheduled for next week and the Ponies will be looking to make it back to the championship game.

In the meantime, the Ponies will focus on their remaining games and work towards securing a victory.

In season opener

In the season opener, Carthage bows 2-1 to Linden-Kildare.

Elyman Fields players ‘Donkey around’ on court

By Dana Munson

Elyman Fields, known for his playful personality and on-court antics, is often referred to as the ‘Donkey’ by his teammates. His unique style of play, which includesitiminating with opponents and throwing up uncontrollable shots, has earned him a reputation as one of the most entertaining players in the league.

Fields, who has been playing basketball since he was a child, said he enjoys the challenge of taking on the role of the ‘Donkey’ in games.

“We like to have fun out there on the court,” said Fields. “I mean, we’re not serious about the game, so why be serious about the funny stuff? It’s part of the fun.

Making a ‘Donkey’ of himself

A player of the ‘Donkey’ style, Fields often finds himself in the middle of the game, either literally or figuratively. He is known for his ability to keep opponents off balance, often by taking foolish shots or making seemingly impossible passes. The result is a chaotic game, with players on both teams trying to score while being distracted by Fields’ antics.

Some just act on their ‘Donkey’

While Fields is the epitome of the ‘Donkey’ style, his teammates are quick to join in on the fun. They often act on their own ‘Donkey’ impulses, creating a sense of camaraderie and good-natured competition.

Campbell honored

By Ann S. Smith

Mrs. James (Jane) Campbell was recently honored at a birthday tea in her honor. The tea was held in the home of her daughter, Elene Designo.

The afternoon was filled with a variety of activities, including games, refreshments, and prizes. The guests enjoyed a bountiful spread of snacks and drinks, and there was plenty of opportunity to socialize and catch up on old friends.

The highlight of the event was the display of a collection of Campbell family heirlooms, which included antique furniture, jewelry, and other vintage items. Guests were invited to browse the collection and learn more about the family history.

The afternoon proved to be a resounding success, with everyone leaving feeling rejuvenated and happy. The birthday girl herself was thrilled with the attention and appreciation she received on this special day.
