Violet Shop owners teach course

Lee Patterson and Linda Patterson at the Violet Shop in Carthage were instructors at a workshop given by the community. The workshop focused on teaching how to properly handle and display flowers. The Violet Shop recently received the Golden Flower Award from the Missouri Garden Club. This event was held on April 9th and was attended by numerous local residents. Mrs. Patterson and Linda Patterson are the owners of the shop and have been involved in the flower business for over 20 years. They are excited to share their knowledge with others in the community.

Unofficial survey of House favors Blue Law repeal

By Leland Williams
Tallahassee, Florida

The Florida House of Representatives has voted in favor of repealing the state's Blue Law, which requires that stores remain closed on Sunday. The vote comes after an unofficial survey conducted by the House Republican Caucus, which found widespread support for the repeal among House members.

The Blue Law, officially known as the State Sunday Law, has been in effect since 1923. It has been a source of controversy and debate for decades, with supporters arguing that it helps traditional businesses and keeps cities safe on Sundays, while opponents say it violates the First Amendment and discriminates against non-religious citizens.

The survey, conducted by the House Republican Caucus, found that 75% of House members support the repeal of the Blue Law. The survey results were shared with the House leadership, who are expected to formally introduce the bill in the coming weeks.

Support for the repeal has grown in recent years, with some new members of the House expressing skepticism about the law's effectiveness and the need for reform.

The Blue Law has been in effect for nearly a century, and its repeal would have significant implications for Florida's economy and culture. Stores and businesses would be allowed to open on Sundays, which could lead to increased sales and tourism, but it could also cause conflicts with religious organizations and communities.

The next steps for the Blue Law repeal bill will depend on the support it receives from House leadership and the Florida Senate. If it passes both chambers, it would then need to be signed by Governor Ron DeSantis to become law.

Annual gospel jubilee features Mid-South Boys

By David Newman

The Mid-South Boys, a gospel quartet from the Oklahoma City area, will perform at the annual gospel jubilee in Panola, Oklahoma.

The jubilee, which is held each year as a fundraiser for the local church, features a variety of gospel performers from across the region. The Mid-South Boys are scheduled to perform on Saturday night, with other acts including a local praise band and a national gospel artist.

The jubilee is an annual event that draws visitors from across the state and beyond. It is held at the local community center and includes a potluck dinner and other activities.

The Mid-South Boys, who perform a mix of traditional and contemporary gospel music, have been a popular attraction at the jubilee in previous years. They are known for their dynamic performances and their ability to engage the audience with powerful vocals and engaging stories.

Tickets for the jubilee are available at the door and online. Proceeds from the event will go to support the local church and its various programs.

Elector Larry Dorman

Rockville Independent School District

Card of thanks

A card of thanks from the Shelton family is displayed on a bulletin board at the Rockville Independent School District. The card expresses appreciation for the work of Larry Dorman, a member of the school district's board of trustees.

Dorman, who served as a trustee for several years, was known for his dedication to education and his commitment to improving services for students and families. He was a strong advocate for increased funding for schools and for programs that support student success.

The Shelton family, along with many others in the community, has expressed their gratitude for Dorman's service and his contributions to the school district. They noted that Dorman's leadership and guidance helped to make a positive impact on the lives of many young people, and they appreciated his willingness to listen and work with others to address important issues.

EFISD candidates voice opinions

One candidate for the upcoming school board election, David Rice, has said that he believes more measures need to be taken to improve the school system. He has called for more teacher training and increased funding for schools.

The other candidate, Jane Smith, has stated that she is committed to improving the academic performance of students. She has proposed several measures, such as increasing the number of after-school programs and providing more resources for teachers.

The election will be held on May 15. Both candidates have promised to work towards the betterment of the school system and the education of our children. It is important that we all vote and participate in this election.
Williams gets first victory
Castleberry shuts down Waskom with great relief

By TED BLANCHET

Carthage coach Scott Lee is trying to wise up the plans of junior halfback Johnnie Lee Williams, who will return as quarterback. He's been trying to figure out which play he'll be able to call for the Carthage offense for the upcoming season. Williams will be a key player for the Carthage offense, leading the team in a game against Waskom. The offense will have to rely on Williams to make key plays in crucial situations.

Williams, who played at Carthage High School, said he's excited to see what the Carthage offense can do this season. He's been working hard during the off-season, and he's ready to take on the challenge.

The Carthage defense will have to keep an eye on Williams, who is known for his running ability. The Carthage defense will have to be prepared to face Williams, who can break away from the line and make big gains on long runs.

Williams is excited to see what the Carthage offense can do this season. He's been working hard during the off-season, and he's ready to take on the challenge.

In other news, Carthage baseball player Roger Williams has been named to the all-state team. Williams had a strong season, leading the team in home runs and RBIs. He's looking forward to continuing his success in the future.

Carthage baseball coach Doug Lee said he's proud of Williams and his accomplishments. He's been working hard during the off-season, and he's ready to take on the challenge.

The Carthage baseball team is looking forward to the upcoming season, and they're excited to see what Williams can do on the field.
