Incinerator open house set Saturday

Panola County residents will have their first public look at the county’s new $6 million incinerator facility on Saturday as an open house and tours are scheduled.

Mgr. Ed Howard, who won the advertising grant which funded the facility, explained that “it’s a great day for Panola.”

Howard mentioned that the facility was designed to handle the waste generated by the county’s 90,000 residents and that it would be a significant step forward in environmental stewardship. The facility, located near Evans Ridge Road west of Carthage, was designed by Hannett, Vokes, and Associates.

A press release for the event stated, “The public is invited to take a tour of the facility and see how the incinerator works. There will be guided tours at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Saturday. The facility will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.”

Howard added, “We have a lot of questions about the facility and how it works, so we will be happy to answer any questions you might have.”

Carthage City Commissioner Art Criner said that the public had been asking for the open house for some time, and that it would be a great opportunity for people to see how the facility works.

Criner explained, “The incinerator is a new way to handle waste, and it’s important for us to educate the public about it. We want people to understand how it works and the benefits it provides.”

The facility is expected to open in early 2018, and Howard said that the public would be able to tour it at that time as well.

Howard concluded, “We are very excited about the new incinerator facility and we hope that everyone will come out to see it and learn more about it.”

Truck association promotes safe driving habits

Dear Mr. Editor:

Nothing we can make up for the loss of a life. We have all been touched by the tragedy. We, as truck drivers, do not condone any violence. The trucking community has lost one of its own. We offer our sincere condolences to the family and friends of the victim.

Sincerely,

Truck association promotes safe driving habits

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am writing to express my concern about the current state of trucking safety. As a member of the Texas Motor Association, I have noticed a disturbing trend among some of our members, who seem to be putting profits over safety. This is unacceptable.

We are all aware of the importance of safe driving habits, not only for our own protection but also for the safety of others on the road. It is our responsibility to lead by example and set a standard for others to follow.

Recently, I have heard reports of drivers who are speeding, cutting off other vehicles, and engaging in aggressive driving behaviors. These actions not only put the driver at risk but also put others at risk as well.

I urge all members of the Texas Motor Association to commit to safe driving practices. We owe it to ourselves and to others to prioritize safety above all else.

Sincerely,

Truck association promotes safe driving habits

Dear Mr. Editor:

I am writing to urge all truck drivers to prioritize safety above all else. As a member of the Texas Motor Association, I have seen firsthand the importance of safe driving habits.

In recent years, we have witnessed an increase in accidents and deaths on our roads. This is unacceptable and must be addressed.

I urge all members of the Texas Motor Association to take a pledge to commit to safe driving practices. This includes adhering to speed limits, maintaining a safe following distance, and never driving under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

Let us all raise the bar for safety in our industry. We owe it to ourselves and to others to prioritize safety above all else.

Sincerely,

CUB SCOUTS TALK ABOUT STRANGERS

On Saturday, Nick, 10, and Peter, 9, both of Cub Scout Pack 294, led by Cub Scout Leader Steve Holton, discussed safety projects. Guests included Steve’s wife, Rosalyn, and Nick’s and Peter’s older brothers, Justin and Jay. The boys, who are in the Green Lodge, had been taught that if they ever got lost, they should stay where they were, wait for help, and never follow strangers. Nick said if he ever got lost he would laugh and make the stranger wonder what was so funny. Peter, looking more serious, said he would not laugh but instead would find a place where others could find him. Each boy carried a "Safe Buddy" bracelet, which included a list of emergency contacts.

PJC shoots down TEC leader

Jaguars find Ponies offensive

By DAVE STEED

After he watched the exciting conclusion of Jacksonville State's first game of the season on March 18, Detroit Lions head coach Dan Blindel knew his team had a serious problem. The Lions were down 10 points to the Panthers, and they were struggling to keep up.

"I'm serious," Blindel said. "We've got to get this offense going. We can't keep playing like this." The Lions are 0-1, and they need to find a way to score more points.

There are several historical events that have impacted the way women have worked in the past. In the early 1900s, women were primarily responsible for household chores and child care. As the economy grew, women began to work outside the home, especially in factories and textile mills. In the 1930s, the Great Depression led to a decrease in employment opportunities for men, which led to an increase in women entering the workforce. During World War II, women were crucial to the war effort, working in factories, shipyards, and other industries. After the war, women continued to work in these roles, but as the economy improved, they began to leave the workforce in larger numbers. In the 1970s, the women’s movement gained momentum, leading to increased opportunities for women in the workplace. Today, women hold a wide range of jobs and have made significant contributions to the economy and society.
