City does ‘housekeeping’ on four charter amendments

In an effort to streamline operations and improve efficiency, the City of Beckville has released four charter amendments for public feedback. The amendments cover a range of topics, including parking regulations, building codes, and water rates. Public meetings are scheduled to discuss the proposed changes:

- Amendment One: Parking Regulations
- Amendment Two: Building Codes
- Amendment Three: Water Rates
- Amendment Four: Special Event Permits

Citizens are encouraged to attend the meetings and provide their input on these important issues. The meetings will be held on the following dates:

- Parking Regulations: March 15, 2023
- Building Codes: April 5, 2023
- Water Rates: May 10, 2023
- Special Event Permits: June 1, 2023

For more information, please contact the City Manager at (903) 555-1234.

Teachers challenge competency test

In the most significant test to date of academic standards in the nation, 10,000 fourth-grade teachers in Texas are taking a competency examination.

The test, which is voluntary, is part of a plan to increase the standards for certification and to improve the quality of education in Texas. The test is being administered in 200 schools throughout the state, including Panola College in Carthage.

The test is divided into four sections: reading, mathematics, science, and social studies. Teachers are asked to complete the test within the next two years, and those who do not pass will be required to retake it.

"This is a major step in ensuring that all of our students receive a quality education," said Education Commissioner Bob Elba. "The test will help us identify areas where we need to improve our teacher standards and professional development programs."
