King cotton spurred the railroad

At the same time, a large number of Texas cotton farmers began to realize the importance of the railway. The railroads became a vital part of the Texas economy, providing a means for the transportation of cotton and other goods. The expansion of railroads also led to the growth of new towns and cities, such as Galveston, which became a major port for cotton exports.

Cotton production, coupled with the railroad, was a significant factor in the rapid economic growth of Texas in the late 19th century. The state's population grew from around 400,000 in 1850 to over 1.5 million by 1900, thanks in large part to the development of the cotton economy.

Lawn management reduces water bill

When the weather turns dry, it's important to conserve water, especially in areas where rainfall is limited. One way to reduce water usage is through the use of lawn management techniques.

One effective method is to use water efficiently. Watering your lawn during the daytime, when the weather is cooler and less windy, can help prevent evaporation. Additionally, using a sprinkler system that is designed to distribute water evenly can help reduce waste.

Protect skin from the sun

Sun protection is crucial, especially during the summer months when the sun's rays are strongest. Wearing sunscreen with a high SPF can help prevent sunburn, while staying in the shade or using a parasol can provide additional protection.

Other tips for protecting your skin from the sun include using wide-brimmed hats, wearing sunglasses, and seeking shade when possible. Taking these steps can help ensure that you enjoy your outdoor activities while keeping your skin safe.

Homemaker's Hotline
By Jeannette Miles

Remember when you were a kid and your mother would always yell at you to clean your room. Now you have kids of your own and you're yelling at them to clean their rooms. It's just not fair. So we've rounded up some tips to help you keep your home a little cleaner, even if you don't have any kids to help out.

1. Set up a cleaning schedule. Even if it's just a quick 10-minute cleanup at the end of each day, it's important to establish a routine. This will help prevent the clutter from building up.

2. Use storage solutions. Keep your home organized by using storage bins, shelves, and closet organizers. This will help you keep track of your belongings and make it easier to find what you need.

3. Get rid of clutter. Don't hold onto things you don't need. If you haven't used something in a year, it's probably time to let it go. This will help make your home feel more spacious and less overwhelming.

4. Involve your family. Encourage your family to help with household chores. This will not only make the workload easier, but it will also teach them valuable life skills.

5. Take breaks. Cleaning can be tiring, so don't forget to take breaks. Use this time to take a walk or read a book. This will help you recharge and make cleaning more enjoyable.

- Faith Urges You to Appreciate Your Father's Wisdom

"Our father in the early years struggled with his own childhood fears. He taught you how to fly a kite. And how to do what's right. His words that made a lot sense were born of his experience. And yet he wanted us to react. What faith has taught us to respond? The wisdom and your own instincts. Designed to help you to lead the same example that he once made. While striving hard to make the grade in your father's footsteps. By now undoubtedly you've found that he was always quite a man. So give him all the love you can.
