Shires appeal denied
The court of appeals for the 11th District, in a decision that had been expected in the case, affirmed a lower court's decision in favor of the Shires family.

A Florida County jury last year found in favor of the Shires family against a Fort Worth publisher, and awarded $505,000 in damages to the family of Grandfather's House.

A result of the appeals court's decision is that the Shires family can now go forward with their lawsuit against the publisher.

Area Red Cross member

talks with city officials

Travis Williamson, a Red Cross volunteer, met with city officials in Carthage on Thursday to discuss how the agency can assist the Red Cross with disaster response.

Williamson said that the agency was able to provide a number of resources to the city, including a mobile command center, a mobile kitchen, and a mobile shower unit.

The Red Cross has been active in Carthage since the beginning of the year, providing aid to those impacted by the winter storm.

The $1.5 million in cash and jewelry that police say was stolen from a jewelry store on the 1500 block of South Main in Carthage was recovered in the suspect's home in East Texas, authorities said.

The man, identified as John Doe, was arrested Tuesday night for theft of mail, police said.

Doe, 30, was arrested at his home in the 1000 block of East Texas Avenue after police said he was caught on surveillance video leaving the store with a large bag.

The police said they recovered about $1 million in cash and jewelry from his home, including rings, necklaces, and watches.

The jewelry store was closed at the time of the robbery, and it is not clear what items were taken.

Police are continuing to investigate the case.

Banquet planned Thursday

The banquet will be held Thursday evening at the Carthage Civic Center and is open to the public.

Area Red Cross member talks with city officials

Travis Williams, a member of the Red Cross, met with city officials on Thursday to discuss the ongoing relief efforts in the area.

"We are working hard to help the people here," Williams said. "We are here to help them get back on their feet and rebuild their lives."
State could write some hot checks

By LYNDAH WILLIAMS

The president of the Texas Peace and Freedom Party, a nonpartisan third party, announced on May 13 that his group had received over $1,500,000 in donations to its national campaign. The money will be used to run a national advertising campaign and to support candidates for state and local offices.

The president of the group also announced that they have received over $2,000,000 in donations to the national campaign, which will be used to run a national advertising campaign and to support candidates for state and local offices.

The national campaign is expected to begin in the fall and will run through the end of the year. The group is also planning to hold rallies and other events in various cities across the country.

In other news, the group has announced that they will be holding a series of town hall meetings in the coming months to discuss issues of importance to their members.

PERSPECTIVES

Gary's World

By Gary Bruce

All you圃s, cotton on that big smile. When you smile, it's like you are saying, "I'm happy, I'm happy." It's a great feeling to be happy. But what makes you happy? It's different for everyone. Some people are happy when they get a good grade on a test. Others are happy when they get a new job. Still others are happy when they get a good grade on a test and get a new job.

When I was a little kid, I used to love playing with my toy truck. I would go outside and play with my friends, and we would pretend that we were truck drivers. We would pretend that we were carrying cargo around the world. We would pretend that we were making deliveries to places all over the world. We would pretend that we were making deliveries to places all over the world.

But as I got older, I realized that playing with toy trucks wasn't going to make me happy for long. I had to find something else to do. So I started reading books. I read about all sorts of things. I read about history, I read about science, I read about math, I read about anything that I could find. And I found that reading made me happy. It was like I was learning new things, and I was seeing the world in a new way.

And then I started writing. I started writing stories about the things that I read. I started writing about the things that I saw. I started writing about the things that I imagined. And I found that writing made me happy. It was like I was creating something new, and I was seeing the world in a new way.

So if you're feeling down, try doing something new. Try reading a book. Try writing a story. Try doing something that you haven't done before. You might find that it makes you happy. It's true.

Wheat to head Carthage schools

By CHUCK GUTLIEB

Wheat, an 18-year-old senior at Carthage High School, is the new principal of the Carthage Independent School District. He was named principal Friday morning.

Wheat was selected by the school board after a national search for a new principal. He will begin his new duties on July 1.

As a student at Carthage High School, Wheat was involved in many activities, including football, basketball, and track. He was also a member of the National Honor Society.

Wheat said he is excited to take on the new role, which he has been preparing for over the past few weeks.

"I've been looking forward to this opportunity for quite some time," Wheat said. "I'm excited to bring my own ideas and to work with the students and faculty to make Carthage High School the best it can be."
