Some publications only think about circulation mostly as "numbers. To us, circulation means people! For these very important people, we deliver the local news and keep them informed about all the things that matter to them and their future. We provide them with meaningful features. We enable them and assist them, we make them think and inspire them to their own way. We make them think and act. We let them choose the best story they can find through our eyes and help them decide what to do next. We deliver a lot more than just numbers.

Not all pine deaths are caused by beetle

Texas Forest Service Forester John Spenley emphasizes that not all sudden deaths of pine are caused by the pine beetle. He cautions people not to be too quick in jumping to conclusions when someone tells them they see a dead pine. People should stick around a tree for a while to make sure before they jump to conclusions because the problem is not necessarily in the tree, it could be in the soil.

Sudden death can be caused by a number of factors, not only by the pine beetle. People should be careful with their decisions when trying to determine the cause of pine death.

Life's a Natural High

BY MONA LOGAN

In counseling with alcoholics, we often observe the same pattern of behavior. There is an initial period of denial, followed by a period of anger, and finally a period of acceptance. This pattern is observed in all stages of the recovery process.

It is important to understand that the alcoholic is not necessarily trying to hide their disease. Rather, they are trying to understand and control their behavior. The denial stage is often characterized by a loss of self-esteem and a lack of motivation.

In the anger stage, the alcoholic may exhibit a range of emotions, including anger, frustration, and resentment. This is often a difficult stage to manage, as the alcoholics may feel that they have lost control over their lives.

The acceptance stage is characterized by a willingness to accept the fact that they have a problem and to seek help. This is often the most difficult stage, as the alcoholic must come to terms with their disease and the impact it has had on their life.

New Postal Service started on June 7

In 1970, the Postal Service was established by the National Postal Service Act. The act created the Postal Service as an independent agency, separate from the Postal Service Board of Governors.

The Postal Service was responsible for the collection and delivery of mail, as well as the enforcement of postal laws.

The Postal Service was later reorganized in 1971, and its powers were expanded to include the issuance of postage stamps.

Since then, the Postal Service has continued to grow and evolve, with new services and technologies being introduced to meet the changing needs of the public.

Punch-card voting system exhibited

BY GARY BRUCE

Representatives from Business Records, Conroe, presented the punch-card voting machines Thursday night at Lufkin's LaVille hotel. The Lufkin Times Record editorial board observed the presentation.

Business Records manager Elmer Hargrett said the automatic counting of a punch-card voting system that was demonstrated Thursday night could replace manual counting in many elections.

A punch-card machine is like a 20th-century punchboard. It needs no human aid and requires no counting. Precinct election results would be counted after the election has been tallied.

Once the machine has been set up and loaded, it is only a matter of a few pressing of keys as the counting of a punch card begins. The punch card is then scanned and read by the machine.

All the results before polls close, in some counties of the state, probably less than two hours later, could be counted. In a county with a typical number of registered voters, it would take only a few minutes to count all the results.

The punch-card system eliminates the risk of human error.

Curry no-billed

A trial of the new Panola County Crime Control Case Management System has ended, with the jury finding Bill Curry not guilty of all charges.

Bill Curry was arrested and charged with multiple counts of assault and battery following an incident in which he allegedly attacked a group of men during a bar brawl.

Curry is a key witness to the incident, and it is believed that his testimony will be critical in determining the outcome of the trial.
