PERSPECTIVES

Confusion reigned over Mexico

The Campbells, a family of four, were visiting Mexico for the first time. They had heard that the border was very busy and they were worried about getting through customs. The husband, George, was a bit nervous about the language barrier, but his wife, Mary, reassured him that they would manage. They arrived at the border crossing and were stopped by a customs officer. The officer asked for their passports and then started asking them questions about their trip. George was not used to talking in Spanish and found it difficult to answer the questions. Mary tried to help by translating, but the officer seemed frustrated with them. After a few minutes, the officer let them through with a warning to be more careful next time. Mary felt relieved, but George was still nervous about the rest of the trip.

Behind the scenes

When Mike Parker was Assistant Director of the Inter-American Development Bank, he often found himself in the thick of international negotiations. As he looked back on his career, he realized how much he had learned from those experiences. He had always been a strong believer in the power of diplomacy, and he was grateful for the opportunities to work with leaders from around the world. He had visited over 100 countries and had met with presidents, prime ministers, and other heads of state. He had seen firsthand the challenges of global politics, but also the potential for positive change. Parker had always been a strong advocate for education, and he believed that investing in education was the key to building a better future for all.

Airman Johnson graduates

Airman David Johnson graduated from the U.S. Air Force Academy with honors. He had been a standout student in high school and had decided to join the military to follow in his father's footsteps. Johnson had been accepted into the Academy after a rigorous application process and had worked hard to maintain his academic and athletic achievements. He was looking forward to his new role as a Airman and was excited to serve his country.

The court is expected to receive input from the public and from county officials before making its final decision. The court is also expected to consider any changes to the budget that may be necessary, such as increased costs for services or decreases in revenue. The court's decision will have a significant impact on the services provided by the county, and it is important that the public understands the implications of the decision. A Question...

When was the last time a New York Senator sent money to pay for your local schools?

Never, of course.

We Texans pay our way with state and local taxes.

And yet, this year alone, Texas will send $3 billion to New York, California and New Jersey and even Hong Kong.

That money will leave Texas in the form of mail orders for all kinds of merchandise.

Not one penny of Texas sales tax will be collected. And so, not one penny of sales tax will come back to Texas to help pay for our schools, highways, parks, hospitals, and all the other things that make our state great.

No, you and your local merchants will pay for them. Don't you think it's time you had a little help? About $100 million in help?

$100 million. That's the minimum additional Texas sales tax due on mail orders going outside our state. That will pay for a lot of local schools.

The Congress is now considering requiring big national mail order firms to collect the sales tax and send it to the states, including $100 million a year to Texas.

In other words, Congress can make these national mail order operators play—pay—by the same rules our hometown merchants play.

Your congressmen need to hear from you. He needs to know that you think local merchants deserve fair treatment and fair competition.

Please write today. Tell your congressman you support a mail order sales tax bill.

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Texas State Comptroller Bob Bullock has been in the Senate, almost since the Congress started to get the sales tax. I'm not sure whether he considers mail sales a taxable privilege. But we are sure he needs to hear from you. Please write today.

Panola Newspapers

We bring you this message because we believe in our local merchants, a program you support.

We want to see our merchants treated fairly. We want to see them play by the same rules as big companies.

We want to see the tax collectible on mail orders and all similar transactions. We want to see the state of Texas get back some of the money it's lost to mail orders.
