Rams rout Beckville 19-8

By GAIL SPIRO

JOSEPHS -- The Stephenville Rams needed to win, and a tough Beckville team helped them get it in a 19-8 victory Friday night.

Two fourth-quarter touchdowns by Josephs, the second of which was on a 62-yard run, sealed the win.

The Rams (4-2, 1-1 District 5-3A) move into a first-place tie with Garden City and Comanche, both of which won.

Beckville (2-4, 0-2) lost its fourth straight game.

Josephs had 16 carries for 157 yards and returned one kick for 62 yards.

The ball page being handed over by two teams is ready to go for the recovery.

The Rams held tough on the 2-Franchise line, however, and forced them into a punt. The Rams turned around on the next series: A 78-yard punt from punt returner Chris Taylor set the Rams up at the 2-Franchise line. The Rams scored on the next play, giving the Rams the lead at 12-8 after ten minutes.

The final score of the game was Josephs rushing for 62 yards on the next play, giving the Rams the win 19-8.

With only seconds left in the game, Josephs rushed for 62 yards on a run, and another after it by 2-Franchise line. The Rams held tough on the 2-Franchise line, however, and forced them into a punt. Porter unequaled among writers

Of Texas Katherine Anne Porter was the recipient of almost every major American literary award, and she was being held so highly that the world was ready to give her everything. Her work was read with admiration by novelists and critics alike. Her novel, "Garden Lies," was a bestseller and her short stories were highly praised.

The story of her life was made into a film in 1971, "Katherine Anne Porter". The film starred Joanne Woodward and was a critical success.

Porter's work has been translated into many languages and has been published in several countries.

In addition to her literary achievements, Porter was also a social activist. She was a member of the American Civil Liberties Union and was an anti-war activist during the Vietnam War.

Despite her fame, Porter kept a low profile and rarely spoke about her personal life. She died on November 12, 1964, in Santa Cruz, California, of a heart attack.

The legacy of Katherine Anne Porter lives on today through her writing and her contributions to American literature.

Congress proclaims Mental Health Week

Amending to increase public awareness and understanding of mental illness, and to report the progress of mental health services, Congress proclaims Mental Health Week.

"Mental Health Week" is a week-long event that aims to raise awareness about mental health issues and to encourage people to take action to improve mental health services.

The week is divided into several days, each focusing on a different aspect of mental health.

The first day of Mental Health Week is "Awareness Day," which is dedicated to raising awareness about mental health issues.

The second day is "Prevention Day," which focuses on strategies to prevent mental health problems.

The third day is "Treatment Day," which highlights the importance of seeking treatment for mental health issues.

The fourth day is "Rally Day," which brings together policymakers and advocates to support mental health reforms.

The last day of Mental Health Week is "Appreciation Day," which is dedicated to recognizing the contributions of mental health professionals.

I could be wrong...

I teach for much of the year in my capacity as a math teacher. It's not easy, but it's rewarding. I love my job. I am always striving to improve my skills and to help my students grow and succeed.

I have taught math for over 30 years and have seen so many changes in the field. I have seen the rise of technology in education and the growing importance of critical thinking skills.

I believe that every student has the potential to succeed, and I work hard to help each one find their own path to success.

Days Gone By

BY ANN MORRIS

Years of hard work and dedication have gone into the history of the Corners community, a place where people have come together to create a close-knit neighborhood. The community is known for its sense of pride and commitment to its roots.

On September 23, the Corners Historical Society will celebrate its 50th anniversary with a special event. The event will feature various activities, including a historical display, a presentation on the history of the Corners, and a chance for community members to share their memories.

The Corners Historical Society was founded in 1966 by a group of residents who wanted to preserve the history of the community. Since its inception, the society has worked to document the history of the area,收集和保存了 Corners 的历史，and has become an important resource for local residents and historians.

The society is currently seeking new members, so anyone interested in learning more about the community's history is welcome to attend the event and join the organization.

State lends itself for bills for Texas, like many businesses, is facing a financial strain. Even with taxes in the bank, some still struggle to pay rent and mortgage payments. In this dire situation, the State Comptroller Bob Bullock has stepped in to lend a hand.

In a recent move, Bob Bullock announced that the State Comptroller's office will lend funds to local governments in need. This move was especially helpful for the city of Carthage, where the state lent $10 million to assist with financial difficulties.

The funds will be used to cover outstanding bills, pay salaries, and provide necessary services. The city's mayor, Tom Garcia, expressed gratitude for the assistance. "This is a critical time for our city," he said. "We appreciate the help from the state and will make sure the funds are used wisely."

In other news, the State Comptroller's office is also working on developing new programs to support struggling businesses. "We are committed to helping our communities," said Bob Bullock. "We will continue to explore new ways to support local governments and ensure that Texas remains strong."
DePresca! found his true calling in Texas

By DOROTHY NEVILLE

Author, DePresca! told the audience at the Sunday evening service at First Christian Church of Carthage how he found his true calling in Texas. He wrote a book about his experiences there, called "DePresca!".

After John and his family moved South, he discovered that the West Fork River in Arkansas provided a perfect setting for his passion. He then decided to move to Texas and began his journey of self-discovery and fulfillment. The book is an account of his life and travels in the West Fork River area, where he found the peace and tranquility he had been seeking.

In 1985, DePresca! published "DePresca!" and the book has become a Best Seller in the Southwest. The story of his life and experiences continues to inspire readers around the world.

Strength For Living
By Babs Bugg

We live in an age of conformity. Peer pressure influences our decisions and often makes us feel like we are losing our own identity. But as we live, grow, and find our own paths, we must remember that our own strength lies within us. A positive attitude and self-confidence are the keys to success.

Strength For Living is a book about finding strength, balance, and the unique characteristics of self-awareness. It is a book about finding the strength within us to make the choices that are right for us.
