Art show deserves community backing

Recently, the Post direct your attention to today's Living feature on the G.O. Art Show and its upcoming return.

Whatever your opinion of art in general—and more specifically of the art produced by members of the community—are you looking for a change in your experiences?

As an art enthusiast, I can say that this is an event of great importance. The G.O. Art Show is a place where artists can showcase their work and connect with the public. It's a great way to support local talent and get an insight into the world of art.

Moreover, the event promotes diversity, allowing participants to experience different styles and techniques. This inclusivity makes it appealing to a wide audience. At the G.O. Art Show, visitors can find everything from paintings to sculptures, photographs to installations, and much more.

The G.O. Art Show will take place on [insert date]. I hope you will join me in attending this event and supporting the local artists. Let's show our appreciation for the creativity that thrives in our community.

Third party leasing can leave owner with less than nothing

By Jim Matthews

There have been many times recently when a company has chosen to lease an asset rather than purchase it. This decision has been made for a variety of reasons, including the desire to keep cash on hand, avoid large capital outlays, and gain tax advantages.

However, in some cases, third party leasing can leave the owner with less than nothing. This can happen when the lessee defaults on the lease agreement and the owner is left with an asset that has no value.

The problem of third party leasing is a real and growing concern. The owner must take steps to protect themselves from this risk. One way to do this is to carefully review the lease agreement before signing. The owner should also consider obtaining insurance that will cover the cost of the asset in the event of default.

Small business alarmed by deficit

The current climate of small business in the U.S. is challenging. The economy is struggling, and many small businesses are finding it difficult to stay afloat.

The deficit is a real concern for small businesses. It is estimated that approximately 20% of small businesses set up groups to mitigate the effects of the deficit. And about one in ten of these small businesses report a significant impact on their business operations.

Delinquent taxes to be collected

The Texas Department of Revenue is collecting delinquent taxes for the 1990 tax year. The department has issued a notice of delinquent taxes for approximately 1,000 businesses. This notice is intended to alert the owners of these businesses that they owe taxes and to provide them with information on how to pay them.

The notice includes a list of the businesses with delinquent taxes, along with the amount owed for each. The businesses have 30 days from the date of the notice to pay the taxes in full or make arrangements to do so.

In case the businesses fail to pay the taxes within the specified timeframe, the Texas Department of Revenue will take enforcement action, which could include seizing assets or other measures.

Elderly men listed

The Texas Department of Public Safety has released a list of elderly men who are missing. The list includes information on the men's names, ages, and locations. The public is asked to contact authorities if they have any information on the whereabouts of these men.

The list is updated regularly as new information becomes available. The Texas Department of Public Safety is committed to ensuring the safety and well-being of these elderly men and encourages the public to assist in their search.

Ponies one shot short

BY THEDA LEACH

Joe Anderson’s three-point shot missed the edge of the rim at the buzzer to stop the game at 1:07 a.m. on Tuesday night, and the Mustangs’ season ended. The Ponies, 20-5, had the lead, 46-44, at the end of the third quarter, but a three-pointer by Anderson tied the game at 46-46.

JOE WATERS

Joe Anderson then scored two points, but the Ponies missed the last two opportunities of the game, and the Mustangs’ season ended. Joe Anderson is the son of Joe Anderson, who has been the assistant coach for the Ponies for the past two years.

Strength For Living

By Jerry Bohneman

My Jerry Bohneman

"This thing has lost its flavor.

When I was young, my mother used to say,

"The world is a big place. You have to take care of yourself and make your own decisions.

But now, as I get older, I realize that there is more to life than just survival. We have to learn to live."

My mother always said,

"You have to have courage to live."

And she was right. I have to have courage to live.

But what about you? Do you have courage to live?

Because I do. I have the courage to live."

First Things First

By Lila Gable

I was reading the news today about a group of people who are living in the streets. They have nothing but the clothes on their backs and are trying to survive. It made me realize how lucky we are to have a roof over our heads and food on the table.

We have everything we need to live and be happy. We don't have to worry about where our next meal is coming from or if we will have a place to sleep at night.

I think we should try to help them. We should try to give them what we have because they don't have as much as we do.

I was thinking about it and I realized that we can do something. We can give them our old clothes and food. We can also give them our time and effort.

I was talking to my friends about it and they agreed. We are going to try to help them.

We are going to try to make a difference in their lives.

And we are going to try to make a difference in our community.

We are going to try to make a difference in the world.

Because we can. We are going to try to make a difference in the world.

And we are going to try to make a difference in the world.

Because we can.
Panola County jail nears completion

By Tommy Kelley

Carthage is in anticipation of the completion of the Panola County jail, which is nearing completion. The jail will be a state-of-the-art facility that will accommodate the growing population in the county.

The jail will have a capacity for 200 inmates and will feature modern amenities such as individual cells, video visitation, and medical facilities. The jail will also have a dedicated staff of correctional officers to ensure the safety and security of the inmates.

Construction on the jail began in 2020 and has been ongoing ever since. The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year, bringing much-needed relief to the current facility, which is overcrowded and outdated.

Visitors are welcomed to tour the facility and see the progress being made. The jail will serve as a model for future construction and will set a new standard for correctional facilities in the county.

Samford says $32,900 collected in 1986

County gets tough on hot checks

By Howard Conley

A record-breaking $32,900 in hot check fines was collected in 1986 by the Panola County Sheriff's Office. The Sheriff's Office has been working hard to get tough on those who use hot checks, and the results are clearly visible.

Hot checks are a major problem in the county, and the Sheriff's Office has been working to address it. The office has implemented a number of strategies to get tough on those who use hot checks, including increased enforcement and education efforts.

The Sheriff's Office has also been working to get the word out about the penalties for using hot checks. In 1986, the fines collected exceeded $32,900, a record amount for the county.

Races lacking options

Cities of Campti, Carthage

Campti and Carthage are currently lacking options for city races. The lack of options is due to the current city council members not running for reelection.

The city councils of both Campti and Carthage have been in place for several years, and with the lack of options, it is uncertain who will be the new city council members.

Accountants laud city for sound management

The City of Carthage has been praised for its sound management practices. Accountants have commended the city for its fiscal responsibility and transparency.

The city has been praised for its ability to manage its finances effectively, which has resulted in a stable and healthy financial situation. The city has also been commended for its transparency in its dealings with the public.
