Whether you're interested in music, history, or just spending time outdoors, there's something for everyone. So, grab your friends and family and enjoy a fun-filled weekend in Paniola!
State capital highlights:

By Lowell Wallace

Our campaign leaders are in the midst of a busy week with various meetings and events. The Republican candidate for Governor, Mike Williams, has been visiting counties across the state, holding town hall meetings and giving speeches. The Democratic candidate, Andrew Gillum, has been focusing on policy issues and campaign strategy. Other candidates include the Libertarian, John Morgan, and the Green Party's Orlando Wilhelm. The race is expected to be closely contested.

Polls show that the race is tied, with both candidates receiving about 44% of the vote. In a recent debate, Gillum accused Williams of being too close to the National Rifle Association, while Williams accused Gillum of being too liberal. The debate was watched by millions of Floridians and is likely to have a significant impact on the outcome of the election.

The race for the U.S. Senate is also close, with incumbent Democrat Bill Nelson leading Republican Rick Scott by 3%. Nelson has been criticized for his handling of the Hurricane Irma response, while Scott has accused him of being too close to Washington. The race is expected to be decided by a small margin.

The candidates are all campaigning in the final days of the election, with both sides spending millions of dollars on TV ads and direct mail. The outcome of the election will have a significant impact on the course of Florida politics in the coming years.
Wrong time for minimum wage increase

By Mark A. de Armas

The minimum wage is scheduled to increase to $7.25 an hour on July 1. This is a right time for a minimum wage increase in the South. The minimum wage is a living wage that provides the foundation for fair and sustainable wages for all workers.

The idea of minimum wage has been around for a long time. The first minimum wage law in the United States was enacted in 1916. Since then, the minimum wage has increased significantly, with a high of $5.15 an hour in 1955.

A number of factors have contributed to the slow increase in the minimum wage. The cost of living has increased, and the purchasing power of the dollar has decreased. In addition, the economy has been in a sluggish state for a number of years, which has made it difficult for employers to pay higher wages.

The increase in the minimum wage will have a positive impact on workers' lives. It will help ensure that workers are able to make ends meet and support their families. It will also help reduce poverty and inequality.

However, the minimum wage increase will also have some negative effects. It will increase the cost of doing business for employers. It will also increase the cost of living for workers. In addition, some employers may be forced to lay off workers or reduce their work hours.

In conclusion, the increase in the minimum wage is a step in the right direction. It will help ensure that workers are able to make ends meet and support their families. It will also help reduce poverty and inequality. However, it is important to consider the potential negative effects of the increase and find ways to mitigate them.

County oil, gas activity

County, city officials are looking at the possibility of adding a new oil and gas company to their list of potential partners. The county has been exploring options for years, and has recently received interest from a number of companies.

The potential new company would bring a new influx of revenue to the county, which could be used to support local projects and services. It would also create new job opportunities for residents.

However, the county is taking a cautious approach to the potential partnership. It wants to ensure that the new company is a good fit for the county and its residents.

Turkey restoration making big strides

Regulation of wild turkeys in East Texas has advanced to the next stage, with the Department of Agriculture, Natural Resources and the Environment (DAFNE) announcing the establishment of a new state-wide program.

The program aims to restore and enhance wild turkey populations throughout the state, with the goal of providing a sustainable source of game birds for hunters.

The program will involve a combination of habitat enhancement, hunting regulations, and research efforts to better understand the needs of wild turkeys.

Easter favors are planned for PGH
Pittsburgh General Hospital and nurses at the Children's Hospital have made plans to provide Easter favors for children admitted to the hospital. Lady Frederick, who is not in residence, is the honorary president of the hospital's nursing service, and the hospital's nursing staff is responsible for preparing the favors.
Mr. Thompson said the favors will be placed in a basket with the following items:
- A basket of fruit
- A small box of chocolate
- A small box of candy
- A small box of crackers
- A small box of cookies

The favors will be distributed to the children on March 31st, the day before Easter.

Thank you
The family of Mrs. Anne Powell would like to thank the staff at Pittsburgh General Hospital for their kindness and care during Mrs. Powell's illness. The family expresses their gratitude to the hospital's nursing staff for their attentive care and for the personal touch they provided during Mrs. Powell's stay.

At least one Irish lady declined to cavort on St. Patrick's Day

On March 17, the town of Ireland was expecting a lively celebration of St. Patrick's Day. However, one woman chose to stay at home and not participate in the festivities. The woman was known in the community as "the Irish lady," and her decision to stay away from the merrymaking was a surprise to many.

The Irish lady had always been a fixture in the community, known for her strong Irish heritage and her love of all things green. Despite the Irish tradition of celebrating St. Patrick's Day with parades, pub crawls, and other activities, she had never felt the urge to join in on the fun.

"I have always felt that St. Patrick's Day is more about the Irish community coming together than about the Irish spirit," she explained. "I prefer to celebrate in my own way, with my own traditions."

To be in show, projects must qualify

Simply being a member of the 4-H or FFA program is not enough criteria for a Pana County youth to qualify as they must also be a member and attend meetings, complete projects, and fulfill other requirements set by the group. The Pana County 4-H Club has set up a calendar of meetings and events throughout the year for members to attend and participate in. The club also has a list of eligible projects that members can choose from to work on. Those interested in participating must register with the club and complete the necessary requirements to be eligible.

Have a chat with Celine at least three days prior to the show date. Crest and Reserve Champions are awarded in each division and also get to participate in the show.

Other requirements:
- Participation in at least 4-H project meetings
- Complete at least one eligible project
- Submit at least one project record book
- Attend the required number of meetings

1986 cattle show fell short of goal

Although the 1986 Pana County Junior Livestock Show and Sale was a success, it fell short of the goal of raising $60,000. The show was held on Saturday, May 17, with a total of 260 animals on display. The cattle show featured a variety of breeds and sizes, with many of the animals being show-quality.

Steer division features three weight classes

Although the number of steers entered in the Steer division was smaller than in previous years, the quality of the steers was still excellent. The steers were divided into three weight classes: 500 to 774 lbs, 775 to 1,000 lbs, and over 1,000 lbs. The judging was based on the overall condition, structure, and quality of the steers. The steers in the 500 to 774 lbs class were judged first, followed by the 775 to 1,000 lbs class, and finally the steers over 1,000 lbs. The steers were shown and judged according to their weight class and were awarded ribbons based on their merit.

Gary church deacons put match to paid-off note

By Dorothy Jackson

GORDON, Ga. (AP) - The 100-year anniversary celebration of the Deacons of First Baptist Church is today.

A gala event will be held to commemorate the occasion.

The deacons are planning a special service, a banquet, and a parade.

The service will begin at 10 a.m. and will feature music by the church choir and quartet.

The banquet will be held at 6 p.m. and will feature a three-course meal.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m. and will wind through the streets of Gordon.

The deacons have been planning the celebration for months.

They have been working hard to make sure everything is perfect.

The deacons are looking forward to a great day.

They hope the entire community will participate in the festivities.

"Classroom space needed"?

Bonds issue discussed

By Edmond Conner

The need for increased classroom space and the Carthage Improvement School District bond issue received a boost in public support when a new school bus was added to the district's fleet.

The Carthage Independent School District (CISD) has been facing a severe shortage of classroom space due to an increase in enrollment. The district has been operating with temporary classrooms, which has caused safety and comfort issues for students.

According to the district, the bond issue was proposed to address the need for additional classroom space and improve existing facilities. The bond would provide funds for the construction of new buildings and the renovation of existing ones.

"This is a critical time for our district as we continue to grow," said CISD Superintendent Dr. James Johnson. "We need to ensure that our students have a safe and comfortable learning environment."

Citizens have expressed support for the bond issue, stating that it is necessary to keep up with the district's growth and provide a quality education to all students.

"I support the bond issue," said community member Sarah Green. "It's important that our schools are modern and safe for our children."

The bond issue is expected to be on the November ballot, and the community is encouraged to vote in favor of it.

"Please consider investing in our future," said Johnson. "Your vote will help ensure a bright future for our students."
