Editorial

Increase is justified

According to a recent article from the Texas Hospital Association, health care costs have increased at a rate of 7% per year over the past 10 years. This increase is alarming and requires attention from all stakeholders. The high cost of health care is a significant factor contributing to the national debt and can affect the overall economic stability of a country. Moreover, the rising cost of insurance premiums has led to fewer people being insured, which further exacerbates the problem. It is crucial that we find ways to control these costs and ensure that health care remains accessible to all.]

Almanac necessary for planting, animal care on Lawless farm

By Tom Reilly

Many farmers in our area rely on the local almanac for planting and animal care advice. This year, the almanac has been especially helpful for those in Lawless farm. The forecaster noted that the current climate is conducive to planting crops, and the advice on water management has been particularly useful. As for animal care, the almanac provided information on the best practices for feeding and grooming animals, ensuring their health and well-being.

Consumer Alert:

Time-sharing tactics--II

By Jim Murphy

Consumer Alert: Time-sharing tactics continue to be prevalent in the tourism industry. Many people fall victim to these tactics each year. It is important to be aware of the signs of a legitimate time-sharing offer. One red flag is a high-pressure sales pitch, with aggressive techniques used to convince potential buyers to make a decision on the spot. Be cautious of offers that seem too good to be true, as they may not have the advertised benefits.

Reality of global economy hurts U.S.

By John Harris

The reality of the global economy is starting to hurt the United States. Changes in demand for American products and the shift in manufacturing to other countries are affecting the U.S. economy. While the initial impact may seem small, it could have long-term consequences if not addressed.

Reception to honor Carthage Cup

Carthage Cup will be honored with a reception on Wednesday, April 1, at the Panola Junior College. The reception is being held in appreciation of the dedication of the Carthage Cup to Panola Junior College and its students.

The Carthage Cup is a tradition of the American Agri-Food Industry Foundation that is designed to recognize excellence in agriculture education. It is a symbol of the commitment of the industry to support the development of future agricultural leaders.

The reception will feature a keynote address by the Carthage Cup, which will highlight the importance of agriculture education and the role of Panola Junior College in providing high-quality education in this field.

East Texas chamber supports bill for homestead equity loans

The East Texas chamber has endorsed a bill that would establish homestead equity loans. The bill, Senate Bill 24, was introduced by Sen. Robert Nichols (R-Kingston) and was designed to provide a pathway for homeowners to access additional funding for home improvements and repairs.

The bill would allow homeowners to borrow up to 80% of the value of their home, which would be secured by a lien on the property. The funds could be used for home improvements, repairs, or other necessary expenses.

The East Texas chamber has endorsed the bill, highlighting the importance of supporting homeowners and promoting economic development in the region.

County oil, gas activity

The No. 1 3-D Hargis is currently active in near Sherry. The field, located in the Sherry Unit of Panola County, is expected to be completed in the near future.

The field is part of the larger Sherry Unit, which is known for its rich oil and gas resources. The area is home to several active oil and gas wells, which are contributing to the economic development of the region.

The Hargis project is expected to bring new opportunities for local businesses and create jobs in the area.

Ag update

Time to clean lawns

By Herb Beckham, Ag Commissioner

It's that time of year again when homeowners are preparing to get their lawns in tip-top shape. Now is the time to switch from winter care to spring care.

The key to a healthy lawn is to maintain it properly throughout the growing season. This includes regular watering, mowing, and fertilizing.

Watering should be done in the early morning or late afternoon to allow the water to soak into the soil. Mowing should be done with the grass left about 2-3 inches long to encourage root growth. Fertilizing should be done in the spring, summer, and fall to provide nutrients to the grass.

Regular maintenance is crucial to ensuring a healthy lawn. Neglecting these tasks can lead to problems such as weed growth, disease, and insect infestations.

For more information on lawn care, contact your local extension agent or visit the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension website.

County to offer farm insurance

Applications are being accepted for the County Farm Insurance Program. The program provides insurance coverage for agricultural producers who have been affected by natural disasters.

The program is designed to help producers recover from losses caused by tornadoes, floods, hail, and other natural disasters. The coverage includes crop insurance, livestock insurance, and farm equipment insurance.

Applications can be submitted online through the County Farm Insurance Program website. The deadline for applications is June 1.

Fate of county jail slipping into limbo

By Tom Hake

As the county judge and district attorney battle over the future of the county jail, there is a question of whether the county jail will be closed or reopened.

Meanwhile, the county has not received any bids for the new jail, and the county judge has not received any letters of intent from the state regarding the new jail.

Inmates at the county jail are on strike, demanding better living conditions and more medical attention. The inmates are seeking to have the county jail reopened.

To Grandfather's House we go for arts, crafts

By Dorothy Blake

Grandfather's House was always a special place to me. It was the place where I felt most comfortable and enjoyed spending time with my family. We would often go there on weekends to paint, do some gardening, and spend time with our grandparents.

Grandfather's House was located in Carthage, Texas, and it was surrounded by beautiful scenery. The house was built in the early 1900s and had a wrap-around porch that offered stunning views of the surrounding area.

Grandfather and Grandmother loved to paint, and they often held art classes for their grandchildren. They taught us how to mix colors, use different brushes, and create beautiful paintings.

One of the most memorable experiences I had at Grandfather's House was when we went on a trip to the local museum. We were so excited to see all the different works of art on display. We spent hours admiring the paintings and sculptures, and we even got to meet the artists themselves.

Grandfather's House was not just a place for art; it was also a place for nature. We would often go on hikes and explore the woods surrounding the house. We would see all sorts of wildlife, including birds, squirrels, and even deer.

One of the best memories I have from Grandfather's House is when we went on a trip to the beach. We spent the whole day playing in the sand and building sandcastles. It was so much fun!

Overall, Grandfather's House was a special place that brought us together as a family. It was a place where we could create beautiful memories and enjoy each other's company.

Chris and Tina are trial and error chefs

The dishes Chris and Tina are trying to make from scratch are more of a trial and error approach than a planned recipe. They often start with a basic idea and then experiment, tweaking the ingredients and flavors until they find what works best. For instance, when trying to make a new noodle dish, they might start with a basic pasta recipe and then add different spices and herbs to see what flavors complement the pasta. With practice, they are getting better at predicting how the flavors will combine and creating dishes that are both delicious and unique.

Your hair can be lovely for your wedding, expert says

Experts recommend that brides plan to start with a clean, dry, and well-groomed hair on their wedding day. This will help ensure that any styling products or accessories will stick and stay in place throughout the day. Experts also recommend that brides should have their hair styled the day before their wedding, if possible, to give the hair time to set and dry completely. This will help ensure that the hair will look and feel its best on the wedding day. Finally, experts recommend that brides should have their hair done by a professional stylist, who can provide the expertise and experience needed to create a beautiful and lasting look.

DeBerry water board seeks $364,000 systems overhaul

By Stratford Crayke

The board of directors for the DeBerry Water Supply Corp. has unanimously approved a request for an overhaul of the water systems. The overhaul would cost $364,000 and would be financed through a loan from the Texas Water Development Board.

The board also approved the hiring of a consultant to oversee the project. The consultant, a well-known engineer, will be responsible for ensuring that the project is completed on time and within budget.

The project will involve the replacement of old pipes and the installation of new ones. The old pipes are too small to meet the demand for water, and the new ones will be larger to accommodate the increased usage.

The board also discussed the possibility of applying for grants from the state to help finance the project. However, they decided to wait until the consultant has provided a detailed plan before making a final decision.

Circus starts Friday

The local humane society will be holding its annual circus weekend. This year's theme is "Circus of Wonders," and there will be a variety of performers, including clowns, acrobats, and elephants.

The circus will be held at the local fairgrounds, and tickets are on sale for $5. All proceeds will go to the humane society, which uses the money to help animals in need.

The event is family friendly, with rides, games, and food available for purchase. The circus will run from Friday to Sunday, with shows at 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 6 p.m. each day.

Retirement center proposal outlined

Philemon of Panola County as a retirement center and combine it as a nursing home. The county has been considering the idea for several months, and the proposal has gained support from many citizens.

The proposed center would be a community-based facility that would provide housing, meals, and medical care for senior citizens. It would also offer a range of social and recreational activities to keep residents active and engaged.

The center would be located in a new building that would be constructed near the senior center. The building would have 100 beds and would be able to accommodate up to 150 people.

Since the project is in the conceptual stage, specific plans have not been finalized. However, the county is committed to ensuring that the center is designed to meet the needs of senior citizens and that it is affordable for everyone.

DeBerry water board seeks $364,000 systems overhaul

By Stratford Crayke

The board of directors for the DeBerry Water Supply Corp. has unanimously approved a request for an overhaul of the water systems. The overhaul would cost $364,000 and would be financed through a loan from the Texas Water Development Board.

The board also approved the hiring of a consultant to oversee the project. The consultant, a well-known engineer, will be responsible for ensuring that the project is completed on time and within budget.

The project will involve the replacement of old pipes and the installation of new ones. The old pipes are too small to meet the demand for water, and the new ones will be larger to accommodate the increased usage.

The board also discussed the possibility of applying for grants from the state to help finance the project. However, they decided to wait until the consultant has provided a detailed plan before making a final decision.

Circus starts Friday

The local humane society will be holding its annual circus weekend. This year's theme is "Circus of Wonders," and there will be a variety of performers, including clowns, acrobats, and elephants.

The circus will be held at the local fairgrounds, and tickets are on sale for $5. All proceeds will go to the humane society, which uses the money to help animals in need.

The event is family friendly, with rides, games, and food available for purchase. The circus will run from Friday to Sunday, with shows at 10 a.m., 2 p.m., and 6 p.m. each day.
