Drug lab not typical

By Turck Bailey

There are no drug operations at Pittsburg Heights Water Works or in any other city in the county of Pittsburg Heights. The drug lab mentioned in the newspaper article is not related to Pittsburg Heights. We really don’t want to be in the drug business, but if we do, we’re going to stay out of it. Our main priority is to keep our city and the people of Pittsburg Heights safe.

Lumber mill reports burglary

A local lumber mill sustained a loss of $5,000 worth of equipment when a burglary was reported. According to a report filed with the Carroll County Police Department, at 201 E. Garrott, the victim stated that on the night of the incident, a group of individuals entered the mill and removed several personal items and equipment.

Case under active investigation.

More detention officers needed

By Tom Kelley

In an effort to increase security and reduce the burden on current personnel, the Carroll County Detention Center will need additional staff.

Currently, there are 10 officers on duty at any given time, but the center is looking to hire several more to assist in managing the high volume of inmates.

Local criminal example of parole board action

By Tom Kacy

According to a Texas parole board member, the recent murder of a parolee in Longview, Texas, is a local criminal example of the effectiveness of their parole board's efforts. The parolee, identified as John Doe, was on parole for a previous offense and had a history of violence. He was paroled on condition that he would attend counseling sessions, but instead went on a crime spree and murdered two people in Longview. The parole board member said that the system failed in this case, as the parolee was allowed to go free despite violating his parole conditions.

Consumer Alert:

Chain letter sales won't set you free

By Jim Myers

In the last 10 years, more than 1.5 million people have been defrauded by chain letter schemes in Texas. These schemes involve a series of promises that attract people with the promise of a quick, large return on their investment. One of the most recent was the "Miracle Million" scheme, which promised a return of 100% on a $50 investment. The reality is that these schemes are designed to take advantage of people's emotions and greed. They are a form of financial exploitation, and you should avoid them.

St. John's windows in tradition of Middle Ages

By Dorothy Hendricks

About the year 675, an icon of Our Lord was given to the church of St. John the Baptist, in the city of Tarsus. This icon was carved from a single block of marble and was given by Queen Theophanu to St. Peter, Bishop of Tarsus. The icon is still preserved in the church of St. John the Baptist in Tarsus.

The icon depicts Our Lord with a halo around His head. He is shown with a staff in His right hand and a book in His left hand. The icon is about 3 feet high and 1 foot wide.

The icon was inspired by the icon of Our Lady of Kazan, which dates back to the 7th century. The Kazan icon is also preserved in the church of St. John the Baptist in Tarsus.

Both icons are considered to be of great importance in the history of Early Christian and Byzantine art.

To anyone who has grown up in the Western world, stained glass and Christianity are inseparable. The stained glass windows of churches have been a symbol of the Christian faith for centuries. St. John's windows are no exception.

The church building itself is a beautiful example of Gothic architecture. The stained glass windows add to the overall beauty of the church and serve as a reminder of the history and tradition of the Christian faith.

The stained glass windows at St. John's are a true work of art. They are not only beautiful, but they also serve as a symbol of the Christian faith. The Windows are a testament to the skill and mastery of the artists who created them.

The stained glass windows at St. John's are an important part of the history and tradition of the church. They are a reminder of the importance of art in the Christian faith and serve as a symbol of the beauty and majesty of the Christian God.
