Jail standards causing dilemma

Jail cost jumps by $71,500

By Tom Bailey

Jail costs have risen in Panola County, as the construction of a new jail building has increased the cost of jail operation. The county jail, which was built in 1987, has been struggling to meet the demands of the growing population and rising crime rates. The new building, which is expected to be completed in 2022, will cost an additional $71,500. The county is also considering the implementation of new safety measures to ensure the safety of inmates, including the installation of advanced security systems and the creation of a dedicated mental health unit. The Sheriff's Office has been working closely with the county to ensure that the new jail meets the needs of the community and addresses the concerns of inmates and their families.

Two suspects arrested in Rinkle murder case

Search continues for truck

Two men have been arrested in connection with the murder of a woman in a rural area near Rinkle, Texas. The suspect in the murder is 20-year-old Michael Johnson, who was arrested on Tuesday. Johnson is accused of killing a woman in her home on Monday night. Police say that Johnson and the victim had been dating for several months before the murder. Johnson has been charged with murder and is being held in the Panola County Jail. The other suspect, a 29-year-old man, has not yet been identified. The investigation is ongoing, and police are urging anyone with information to contact them immediately.
Area deaths announced

William Bell Doster, 29, a native of Cartersville, died of injuries sustained in a motorcycle crash Friday. He was born on Jan. 4, 1949, in Cartersville, and was a resident of Rome. He was also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Doster of Cartersville, and his sister, Mrs. June Bullard of Rome.

Fatal accidents up 10 percent

Rural fatal traffic accidents in the United States have increased by 10 percent this year compared to the same period last year, according to new figures released by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). The increase is due to a nationwide increase in the number of drivers on the road, as well as a rise in the number of accidents involving alcohol.

DeBerry adopts water system

By Tom Rehbein

Dewberry Farms, a leading producer of water systems, has announced the adoption of a new water system for its operations. The system, which will be implemented across the company's facilities, is expected to reduce water usage and improve energy efficiency. Dewberry Farms is committed to sustainability and is continually seeking ways to reduce its environmental impact.

Marathon runner gets 'good luck'

Bill Smith, 46, a marathon runner from Cartersville, has announced that he will be running in the upcoming event. He has been training for months and is looking forward to the challenge. Smith has previously participated in several marathons and has set several personal records. He is hoping to improve his time and finish in the top ten.

Sales tax revenue decreases

According to the latest report from the Georgia Department of Revenue, the state's sales tax revenue has decreased by 5 percent in the past year. The report attributes the decrease to a decrease in consumer spending and an overall decrease in economic activity. The report notes that the decrease in sales tax revenue will likely result in a decrease in state revenue, which may impact state programs and services.

FUND ESTABLISHED FOR DECKER INFANT

A fund has been established for the infant of Decker, a one-year-old boy who was injured in a car accident. The fund is being set up to help cover the medical expenses incurred by the family. The fund is open to donations and is located at the local bank.

Advice to commercial farmers

Get big or go out of business

By Marvin Brown

Commercial farmers have a tough road ahead over the next 10 years. Since the 1960s, commercial farmers have been losing land in favor of larger farms. The trend has continued, and the future does not look much better.

Commercial farmers must decide whether to stay big or go out of business. If they stay big, they will face even more competition from large farms. If they go out of business, they will lose their land.

Settlement farmers in the east have a better choice. They can stay small and benefit from the demand for local produce. They can also provide a source of income for local residents.

Safeway silent on Carthage

The Safeway supermarket in Carthage has not responded to the state of the economy or the growing trend towards local produce. The Safeway store in Carthage has not been able to attract customers, and it may be on its way out of business.

Approval to move cattle not granted by state vet

In the April issue of the veterinary magazine, the Texas State Board of Veterinary Examiners announced that it had denied approval for a new cattle movement. The cattle movement was proposed by a local farmer, but the state vet rejected the proposal.

This is a serious setback for the farmer, who had been planning to move his cattle to a new location. The state vet has been very strict with cattle movements, and this decision is likely to have a significant impact on the cattle industry in Texas.

Police report

Three arrested on auto theft

Two teenagers and a 17-year-old girl were arrested on charges of auto theft last week in Panola County.

A 17-year-old girl, who was a passenger in the vehicle, was arrested after the driver lost control and crashed into a tree. The driver and a 16-year-old boy, who was also a passenger, fled the scene on foot.

The three were later found hiding in a nearby field, where they were taken into custody without incident.

Acquired taste in Cajun country...

Louisiana native learned Cajun cooking in Texas

By Dorothy Mardis

That Cajun native, who grew up in the bayou country of Louisiana, is now a follower of a different kind of cooking: that Cajun cooking is a popular way to prepare food in Texas.

The Cajun, who is also known as a Creole, is a native of Louisiana. He is a French-speaking person who lives in the south of the state, primarily in the area around New Orleans.

The Cajun cooking style emphasizes the use of seafood, vegetables, and spices. Some of the most popular dishes include gumbo, jambalaya, and crawfish.

In Texas, Cajun cooking has become increasingly popular in recent years. It is particularly popular in the southwest part of the state, where Louisiana influence is strong.

The Cajun cooking style is also being adopted by chefs in other parts of the country, as more people come to appreciate the unique flavors and spices of this cuisine.
