Stolen autos get new home

Five of the nine stolen vehicles recovered during the recent auto theft crackdown have been turned over to rightful owners, in these cases, insurance companies. The law provides that in cases of recovered vehicles, the superior bond holder keep the vehicles, and the insurance companies, recovery fees, pay the former vehicle owners. The law specifies that in cases of some vehicles may be held for evidence until bond requirements have been met. The colored, who in these cases should be paid the entire purchase, is a rule to a more important rule, have recourse for the theft. However, through the system of the "lost or stolen" vehicles, only one of the nine recovered vehicles has been paid.

In the past, a member of the Stolen Auto Task Force of Panola County, for a period of time, has been identified as the leader of the operation of discovering the vehicle. The leader of the operation, by the police department, has been identified as the leader of the operation.

A 1985 Chevrolet Camaro, frequently used in the recovery of stolen vehicles, was purchased from a local car dealership. The vehicle was later recovered and returned to the rightful owner.

On March 17, a 1985 Pontiac Trans protesters were arrested for charging the vehicle and a battery. The arrest of the leaders of the operation, by the police department, has been identified as the leader of the operation.

TEACH YOUR CHILDREN RESPECT FOR ALL OF GOD'S CREATURES

We believe that children learn to show compassion for all living creatures through the practice of respect and the feeling of concern should extend beyond the animals. How the education must begin early in life, before they have the chance to play an active role in creating or protecting the environment. Children must be taught to respect all living creatures, from the smallest invertebrates to the largest mammals. This respect must extend to all living creatures, including plants, insects, birds, and mammals. It is important to teach children to appreciate the beauty and diversity of the natural world, and to understand the interconnectedness of all living things. This education must begin early in life, before children have the chance to question or challenge the values of the adults around them. Children must be taught to respect and care for all living creatures, from the smallest invertebrates to the largest mammals.

Shiloh Baptist to mark anniversary

Historic Shiloh Baptist Church of Seguin, established in 1867, will host its 117th anniversary service at 11 a.m. Sunday, May 11, in the school auditorium. The Rev. Sir Gordon, pastor of Shiloh, said the public is invited to enjoy the church's special music and a welcoming dinner at 5 p.m.

The church, located at 1000 E. Main St., is one of the oldest African American churches in Seguin. It was established in 1867 by a group of freed slaves who fled to freedom in自由land.

Although April showers were late in coming, this year's snowfall made up for that. The Texas Panhandle has been quite wet, receiving more than twice the amount of rain it received last year.

However, although the Panhandle has been wet, the rest of the state has been quite dry. The Texas Panhandle received over 40 inches of rain this year, while the rest of the state received only about 15 inches.
